DEFENCE EXPERT BACKS ATOMIC TEST BAN PACT

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Herbert F. York testified today the limited nuclear test-ban treaty offers "a first small step" toward a solution of what he termed the dilemma of increasing military power and decreasing national security.

York, now chancellor of the University of California at San Diego, was director of research and engineering for the defence department during Eisenhower's terms.

Two Miners Await Lift-Out As Rescue Shaft Completed

ALTERNATE escape capsule made of latticed steel was being kept on hand at Hazleton, Pa., for possible use in rescue of two miners. A miner is shown here climbing into the side of the tube. The other capsule, shaped like a big artillery shell, is entered from the bottom.

Viet Nam Faces U.S. Aid Cut

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI)—The United States warned today that it will make sharp cuts in its multi-million-dollar aid to South Viet Nam if President Ngo Dinh Diem's government continues its present harsh policies against opposition forces and Buddhists.

The warning was contained in a Voice of America broadcast which reached this tense city where troops still occupy key points in strength.

It came as government troops and police appeared to have smashed student resistance to the regime.

Government forces shot and killed one girl and carried hundreds of other student demonstrators off to jail in a crackdown Sunday. Some estimates placed the number of students jailed at 2,000.

The government radio broadcast an order today reducing the curfew from 11 p.m. to 5 a.m. to midnight to 5 a.m. At the same time, Ton That Dinh, military governor of Saigon, issued an order authorizing soldiers to open fire on any gathering, demonstration or group of "troublemakers" who violate the state of martial law which has been in effect since last Wednesday.

There were no new student demonstrations today, but informed sources said a student leader smuggled identical notes Sunday night to newly-arrived U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and key Vietnamese generals which said, "We now hand fight against Diem over to you."

The students apparently hoped that U.S. officials and possibly dissatisfied elements in the army would take up their fight for them.

Lodge met this morning with acting Vietnamese Foreign Minister Truong Cong Cuu, and shortly afterwards presented his credentials to Diem at the Gia Long presidential palace. He gave Diem a personal message from President Kennedy.

The delegation was allowed into the prison Sunday afternoon to read portions of a telegram it said came from Stefan Sorokin, the Sons' spiritual leader now living in Uruguay. The telegram urged the more-than-100 fasting Freedomite prisoners to resume eating.

The prisoners, serving terms for terrorism, announced that they would continue the fast unless Sorokin was brought to them. The camping Freedomites said they would maintain their hunger strike in sympathy with their jailed brethren.

The fast is believed to have taken the life of Paul Podmorow, 22, a sect member jailed for arson who died Friday in nearby Chilliwack Hospital. G. S. Merritt, assistant warden, said Podmorow apparently died from malnutrition.

FREIGHTERS COLLIDE IN LOS ANGELES FOG

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Two heavily-loaded U.S. freighters collided in dense fog in Los Angeles harbor today and were badly damaged. No injuries were reported.

The 4,608-ton Matson Line freighter Sierra of San Francisco suffered a five-foot rip in her starboard side at the waterline. She was listing sharply but kept from sinking by a load of lumber. She was towed to shore.

The 4,300-ton Calmar Lines Liberty ship Massmar of Baltimore, listing slightly, dropped anchor near the site of the collision.

The Sierra, with a cargo of B.C. lumber, was inbound from San Francisco for Los Angeles, and the Massmar was outbound for San Francisco. The Sierra, a regular visitor, began loading at various B.C. ports when she docked at Victoria July 31.

Prison Boosts Medical Staff

AGASSIZ, B.C. (CP)—The medical staff at Mountain Prison was increased by six persons today to cope with the continuing fast by Sons of Freedom Doukhobor prisoners.

Penitentiaries Commissioner Allen J. MacLeod said the Canadian Army was asked to send a doctor, nurse and four orderlies.

A doctor, nurse and three orderlies have been attending the prisoners so far during the 34-day hunger strike.

Five Freedomites have been taken to hospital and one has died since the strike began. Sect members inside and outside the special prison have refused to give up the protest, and Mr. MacLeod said today "how far they'll go I don't know."

Meanwhile, a group calling itself the human rights committee made an attempt to resolve the situation in alliance with a few of the more than 500 Freedomites who camped here last Tuesday on arrival from Vancouver.

The delegation was allowed into the prison Sunday afternoon to read portions of a telegram it said came from Stefan Sorokin, the Sons' spiritual leader now living in Uruguay. The telegram urged the more-than-100 fasting Freedomite prisoners to resume eating.

The prisoners, serving terms for terrorism, announced that they would continue the fast unless Sorokin was brought to them. The camping Freedomites said they would maintain their hunger strike in sympathy with their jailed brethren.

The fast is believed to have taken the life of Paul Podmorow, 22, a sect member jailed for arson who died Friday in nearby Chilliwack Hospital. G. S. Merritt, assistant warden, said Podmorow apparently died from malnutrition.

WIRE BRIEFS

Police in Scuffle

CHICAGO (UPI)—Five Negro and white policemen scuffled today at the mobile classroom site on Chicago's south side that has been the scene of racial demonstrations all month. One officer was injured.

U.K.: Walkout Ends

LONDON (Reuters)—Two hundred thousand British construction workers returned to their jobs today after a week-long strike over wages and hours.

Wind Wrecks Bridges

ROBICHAUD OFFICE, N.B. (UPI)—Gale force winds of 45 miles per hour from the Gulf of St. Lawrence and Northumberland Strait have downed four bridges in New Brunswick and police reported one car submerged in the Shemogue River.

Irish Mail Stops

DUBLIN (Reuters)—The Irish Republic faced a country-wide rural communications breakdown when 200 men who run village and small-town post offices went on strike today.

Dynamite Stolen

ST. JEROME, Que. (CP)—Quebec Provincial Police said today 6,000 sticks of dynamite have been stolen from a highway construction shack 32 miles north of Montreal in the Laurentian foothills.

Bombing Claimed

ADEN (Reuters)—Yemen radio in San'a claimed Sunday night British forces bombed a Yemite-occupied village, killing many women and old and young people.

Bandits Kill 5 Guards

MANILA (AP)—Bandits hacked five guards to death today and made off with a 500,000 pesos (about $135,000) in cash and cheques from the government rice and corn administration. Police said the victims were herded into a room of the administration building in the city, tied up and killed with an axe.

Will Come Up One at a Time

HAZLETON, Pa. (UPI)—Rescuers today completed enlargement of the escape hole for two plucky miners trapped 308 feet underground for two weeks and began final operations to remove them in a metal capsule.

Drillers reamed out the plug at the bottom of the hole at 3:18 p.m., EDT (12:18, PDT). The next job was to withdraw equipment from the hole, mount the capsule and give it a few test runs.

Authorities hoped to have David Fellin, 38, and Henry Thorne, 28, out of the 308-foot deep prison by this evening. The last 15 feet had to be reamed out with extreme care, cutting only four feet an hour.

The final operation consisted of enlarging the original 12-inch hole, by which the miners were located last week, to 17½ inches. Drilling equipment will be withdrawn, an escape capsule lowered into the hole, the men drawn up one at a time.

Fellin reported by telephone that all was well in the mine and very little dust was coming through from the drilling operation. The lower part of the hole had been temporarily filled with cement to prevent debris from falling on the trapped men.

"We're sneaking up on you, so if you see any rock falls or cracking, or anything, you holler," Gordon Smith, deputy state secretary of mines, told the men. "And don't look up when the hole goes through."

Fellin assured him, "We'll holler" if anything goes wrong.

'Something that Looks Like Plastic'

At 1:18 p.m. EDT the reamer broke through the concrete plug and came to the final wooden plug. Fellin said he looked up the hole and saw something that "looks like plastic."

"That's the plug," he was told by Smith. "Keep out of the way. We're going to start to drill again."

When the drill passed the 165-foot mark shortly before noon EDT, it was decided to continue to drill through to the men with the 17½-inch reamer instead of switching to a 20-inch reamer. Authorities said, however, that the large bore would be used "if necessary."

Dr. H. Beecher Charnbury, state secretary of mines, said there was a possibility the breakthrough could be made in three hours but he "suspected" it would take a longer time. He said it would take five hours to prepare the tube for the capsule, test the capsule, and take other precautions for pulling the men up.

Rescue workers reported the three-inch tube being drilled in an effort to reach the third trapped miner, Louis Bova, also had passed the 265 foot depth, but progress was "disappointing." The whereabouts of Bova, who has not been heard from since last Tuesday, are not known exactly.

The federal aviation agency declared the Sheppton area a disaster area today in order to bar all airplanes from approaching within five miles or 2,000 feet altitude without specific advance approval of the FAA. This will prevent any vibrations, especially from jets, from disturbing the earth in the rescue area.

There were fears the metal escape capsule, which was expected to bring the men to the surface, would get stuck in the narrow rescue shaft.

Officials also wanted to decide whether to send a volunteer down to help the men into the capsule.

The 10-foot long concrete plug was poured to prevent dirt, rock and coal being scraped out in the reaming operation from falling into the miners' tiny prison.

Reds Didn't Put Fire Out

BOSTON (AP)—The Gloucester, Mass., fishing boat St. Nicholas sank today as a result of an engine-room fire which started up again after a Russian fishing vessel fought the blaze and reported it controlled.

The eight-man crew, unharmed, had been taken aboard another American fishing vessel, the Holy Cross, after the St. Nicholas crew radioed Sunday night that they lacked firefighting equipment and could not control the flames.

At that time, the seagoing Russian tug Salvoce sped to the scene, fought the fire and, at daybreak today, reported the blaze controlled before it departed.

Thousands Lose Vote Party Chiefs Charge

By FRANK RUTTER

The first major controversy of the Sept. 30 election boiled today around charges that thousands of eligible British Columbians will not have a vote.

The three opposition party leaders attacked Premier Bennett for "arrogance" and claimed his snap election included deliberate disregard of the fact that short notice would virtually disenfranchise many citizens.

It was disclosed that there has not been a full-scale revision of the provincial voters' list since Social Credit came to power in 1952.

Chief electoral officer Fred Hurley said that a number of constituencies have been revised by door-to-door canvassing over the years, but a cabinet order would be required to launch a province-wide enumeration.

Voting lists close on Saturday and there will be no door-to-door canvass in any riding. All three opposition leaders deplored the short-notice election.

LABOR EFFORT

And the B.C. Federation of Labor, which supports the New Democratic Party, declared it will print 50,000 registration cards in an attempt to sign up voters itself.

Electoral officials checked with legal advisers and found there is nothing they can do to stop it.

PERMANENT LIST

A permanent voters' list is maintained for the whole province and it is kept up to date in three ways:

Once a month the vital statistics branch supplies a list of deaths and the names are deleted.

After each election people who don't vote are sent a card which they must complete to remain on the list.

The public itself is expected to notify local registrars of any changes.

In some ridings there has

Young Steelhead Die After Area Sprayed

PORTLAND (AP)—The Oregon Game Commission says nearly the entire steelhead fingerling population of 70,600 in one of its rearing areas has been killed by a chemical pesticide.

No more than 1,000 fingerlings were left, state game director Phil Schneider said Saturday, and they are doomed.

Schneider said a highly toxic pesticide, probably dieldrin, is blamed by biologists for the kill in the Whistler's Bend experimental rearing area on the North Umpqua River of southwestern Oregon. The Bend no longer will be used for rearing steelhead.

Schneider said that four to seven years ago, a grasshopper control program was conducted on that watershed and this may have been one source of the pesticide in the water. He also said that in the last four years, adjacent pasture lands were sprayed and that a year ago, still another area was sprayed with aldrin, which breaks down into dieldrin.

He said it is believed the pesticide has been carried into the stream by rains and water runoff.

CRUSTY U.K. MAGAZINE SNIFFS AT HERO

Robin Hood Was Just a Hood

LONDON (AP)—A highly respected British magazine today denounced Robin Hood as a hoodlum and said that if he were alive today he would be jailed.

The magazine, The Justice of the Peace and Local Government Review, said:

"Having regard to the fact that the exploits of this legendary hero were chiefly concerned with robbing the rich, under the specious motive of giving to the poor—after deduction of a reasonable commission for services rendered—a function which, in modern times, has been taken over by the welfare state—it is a question of some doubt whether a Robin Hood festival is not contrary to public policy."

A Robin Hood Festival was started in Nottingham—Robin Hood's stamping ground—last June.

The magazine also took a swipe at the Sheriff of Nottingham and said he cut a poor figure in history.

"The nurturing among the country's youth of admiration for an outlaw who had deserted his lawful wife for fun and games in the Greenwood with maid Marion (who was, apparently, no better than she ought to be, and certainly no maid), is about as anti-social as the hero worship of a bold, bad bandit who did not hesitate to discharge lethal weapons at the posterior of the local sheriff deputed to arrest him."

The magazine said the Robin Hood Festival was organized by a Nottingham clothing manufacturer who wanted to attract American tourists.

The article also administered an editorial spanking to Friar Tuck, accusing him of behavior unbecoming to a churchman.

It concluded: "One thing is certain—if Hood were alive today, he would be eligible for a good long spell of preventive detention..."

A good deal o' th' battle o' th' polls is goin' t' take place down on Gordon Street.

It folks felt th' same int'rest in savin' a few hundred million people that they show in rescuin' two coal miners, we might hev a better chance at disarmament.

'Proud But Not Arrogant'

By HAROLD MORRISON
WASHINGTON (CP) — This capital is showing a king-size case of jitters as D-day approaches for the biggest civilian protest march in the history of the United States.

Residents and officials are wondering whether the estimated 100,000 to 200,000 Negroes and their white sympathizers will march peacefully here Wednesday or whether there will be riots.

Negro leaders are split on the outlook. Moderates say there will be dignity and decorum; extremists warn of possible bloodshed.

In a statement Sunday, leaders of 10 organizations sponsoring the march, pledged: "It will be orderly, but not subservient. It will be proud, but not arrogant."

"We call upon them (marchers) all, black and white, to resist provocations to disorder and violence."

But one outspoken Negro, Malcolm X, a leader of the Black Muslims, said the march has "been taken over by the government... is controlled by the government and is being used for political expediency."

POLICE CONFIDENT

Police believe they have the situation under control. They are not so concerned about what may develop in daylight during the mile-long protest parade along historic Constitution and Independence avenues. But they fear what may take place later if fragmented Negro groups encounter provocation from George Lincoln Rockwell's American Nazi party or other extremist groups.

Police hope the visitors, from all parts of the country, will depart within hours after the march. But there is threat of a national rail strike Wednesday night that would leave thousands of Negroes stranded.

District commissioners have urged residents to welcome the visitors with courtesy and hospitality. Many government workers have been urged to take the day off—as part of annual leave—to reduce downtown congestion.

Some 2,500 police and assistants will cover the march route and assembling areas. About 4,000 federal troops will be stationed nearby.

There will be 750 medical personnel on duty, along with 46 ambulances and 24 first-aid stations. Some 130 toilet units will be set up throughout the area, along with three mobile toilet trailers. Special fittings on fire hydrants and water trucks will provide drinking water. Those who don't bring their own food will be able to buy packaged sandwiches.

CLERGY TO JOIN

This will be a march for jobs and freedom, with Protestant ministers, rabbis and Roman Catholic priests, Hollywood stars, politicians and others planning to participate.

Negroes want fast congressional action on President Kennedy's bill to make it easier for them to get service in hotels and restaurants, along with better educational and job opportunities. But Congress shows no eagerness to move quickly. In fact, there may be no concrete action on the bill until Christmas.

Hundreds of reporters and broadcasters from all parts of the world plan to observe the march. Some U.S. diplomats fear that embarrassing reports may be spread around the world—especially if there are riots.

Bus Driver Drunk

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — A truck plunged down a cliff Saturday killing 10 and injuring 23 peasants, police reported. They said the driver was drunk and fled after the accident on the road between Carchi and Imbabura.

Big Plane Ripped Apart In Calgary Airport Crash

DANCE OF LIFE—Dancing red beads suspended in a plastic tube can alert anyone to radioactive fallout in the atmosphere. But if any radioactivity is present, the static electricity is neutralized and the beads fall to the bottom of the tube.

Federalists Meet

TOKYO (Reuters)—Earl Attlee, former British Labor party prime minister, told the opening session of the 11th congress of World Federalists in Tokyo Saturday that "all nations must be converted to the view that without world law the human race will perish."

Contrary to common notion, birds rarely if ever sleep with their heads under a wing. Many place the bill among the feathers between the body proper and wing joint.

CALGARY (CP)—There was a tremendous thump. The lights went out and the plane tumbled over several times.

That was one passenger's description of the crash landing of an F-27 Turbo-prop aircraft off the northeast end of McCall airfield Saturday night.

The 12 passengers and three crew members escaped serious injury although the plane's wing and tail sections were ripped away and undercarriage was battered when the two-engine West Coast Airflights craft dropped into a farmer's pasture.

Passenger William Cohen, 30, of Calgary said most passengers were in the forward part of the 40-seat main cabin of the Portland-to-Calgary plane. At about 11:20 p.m., passengers were asked to fasten their seat belts.

Mr. Cohen said: "We then started our descent. It was very choppy. The plane drifted through fog patches and as I looked out the window I couldn't see any city lights."

"Then without warning, the plane hit the ground. I could see some of the seats coming unhinged and objects flying through the air."

"Most of the passengers were screaming and crying. When the plane came to a halt it was in an upright position."

"I was aware of what had happened and started working my way to the rear of the plane. I heard a few people moaning but could see that everyone was alive."

Mr. Cohen said he knocked out a window and climbed outside. Someone passed an injured woman through after him.

Captain Daniel Wells of Seattle suffered a gash in his forehead.

The crew ordered passengers to return to the craft after it became apparent there would be no fire.

NEW YORK:

A Southern Revolt

By Alistair Cooke

THE game of picking the challenger to beat the Champ in the White House is always the liveliest of national sports in the third summer of a presidential term. It is now being played on the beaches and back porches, in the kitchens and saloons of America with its customary fire and ingenuity, on the understanding that the players agree to forget the glamor that an incumbent acquires in office and the enormous weight he brings to bear through his power of patronage.

Until a month or more ago, there was hardly a Republican leader in America who wasn't prepared to tell his constituents the name of the miracle man (Governor Rockefeller of New York, Governor Romney of Michigan, Hatfield of Oregon, Scranton of Pennsylvania, Senator Goldwater of Arizona, Senator Morton of Kentucky) and then to confide to his wife that Kennedy was unbeatable.

General Eisenhower is only the latest of these chin-up optimists, arriving in New York one day and adding to this stable the very dark names of Generals Norstad and Clay, Governors Love of Colorado, and Anderson of Kansas, Representative Ford of Michigan, and Gabriel Hauge, a banker.

But Dr. Gallup's oracles from Princeton brought the revelation that Senator Barry Goldwater, the forthright and ingratiating spokesman of the Republican Right, would today take 54 per cent of the vote in the South, against Kennedy's 39 per cent; and this in the region that for a hundred years has been the Democrats' huge rotten borough.

Ready to Revolt

The recent news suggests that the whole South is ready to revolt against its old master, and Dr. Gallup interprets his findings with the note that the solid Democratic South "may be on its way to becoming the solid Republican South."

What has given sudden reality to the moony hopes of the Republicans is the more incredible discovery that if the comparatively little-known Governor Romney of Michigan, a Northerner and an automobile tycoon, were to run against Kennedy today he would take 47 per cent of the Southern vote against Kennedy's 40 per cent (13 per cent are undecided).

The pollsters have no explanation for this new-found love, but the word has spread through the desperate keepers of Southern folklore that Governor Romney, as an elder of the Church of Latter Day Saints, is sworn to respect the dictate of the Book of Mormon that in our earthly home, as in heaven above, even the faithful are divided into the whites and the inferior breeds of the black men and the yellow.

Governor Romney has fretted about this and sooner or later he will have to break with Joseph Smith or adapt his faith to his ambition.

At any rate, the latest poll abundantly demonstrates that the Negro rebellion, and President Kennedy's determination to placate it with a Federal civil rights bill, is the most telling issue in next year's presidential election. President Kennedy himself, of course, has long suspected it, but evidently his conscience won over his political instinct.

Anyway, he is hoping to revive the waning liberal faith in him and to offset in the great industrial states of the Northeast and the Mid-west the votes he will lose in the South. As a matter of political arithmetic, this cannot be done. He would still need to take California and break up the Western-Midwestern block of Republican states.

Acute Problem

This problem becomes all the more acute since the rise of the Western idol who appears to threaten the Eastern hold on the White House more than anyone since William Jennings Bryan; none other than Senator Goldwater.

What at last begins to bother the White House is the fact that Goldwater is the strongest opponent the President could meet in the West and (because of his steady belief that the Federal government should not try to supplant the state laws of the South) now in the South also.

Governor Rockefeller has not come into this report because he turns out to be the only Republican put up to the Southern voters whom Kennedy could beat (a slender 44 per cent against 39 per cent). From the Southern point of view, Rockefeller and Kennedy offer a choice of evils.

But Rockefeller has now quietly decided to seek the nomination and to fight for it, in the early primaries (presumably New Hampshire, Ohio, and Wisconsin) next spring.

Recently in Madison, Wisconsin, Senator Goldwater said he, too, will be in the Wisconsin primary to give his presidential try "the full treatment." So there looms the real possibility of a merciless struggle between Goldwater and Rockefeller, with the familiar consequence of a convention deadlock.

President Kennedy is pondering all this with his usual plegm. At one time he was said to suspect that in such a deadlock, Governor Scranton would emerge as the sacrificial lamb.

Quite lately he has confided that it would be no surprise to him if, in a hopeless tie between Goldwater and Rockefeller, the man to break through would be not Scranton, or Romney, or Morton but — surprise, surprise — Richard M. Nixon.

If so, President Kennedy has remarked, "He would give us a very rough time." In fact, one year from the start of the campaign, the best thing working for Kennedy is his own coolness before all prospects, his resolve to outmaneuver through the whole 3,000 counties, his old warhorse's disposition to "take nothing for granted."

FROM WASHINGTON

Books for the White House Prompt a Memory of Coolidge

THE NEW YORK TIMES has been much too solemn about the books chosen for the White House by a committee headed by the librarian at Yale. It ran a list of the books on page after page. Then it wagged its solemn little head in a reproving editorial in which it regretted the absence of the great European writers from the list.

All this fuss over a casual collection of books. Many of the books do not cease to be commonplace and trivial merely because they have been chosen by famous scholars. Some selections do more credit to the vanity of ignorance than to the discernment of scholarship.

President Kennedy needs less help than any President since Theodore Roosevelt in making up his mind about books. Around him in the White House is a group of men born to grapple with libraries. So this official collection cannot be meant primarily for President Kennedy. It is intended rather for his successors — and to save the shelves of the White House from the accumulated horrors of miscellaneous gifts.

Gift Books

How horrible those shelves could be in normal times can be seen in David C. Mearns' article on "A Neglected Bookman: Calvin Coolidge." As a leading official of the Library of Congress, Mr. Mearns had a great deal to do with the White House library. Coolidge should not be judged by these books. But he kept them because they were gifts. Most of the titles would make a goat sick.

Yet on his own Coolidge was not too bad. William Allen White remembers that Coolidge while governor of Massachusetts was shown one of Emily Dickinson's manuscripts. He examined the paper and then exclaimed: "She writes with her hands; I dictate." That certainly is one difference between the President and the poet.

Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach once told the American Antiquarian Society that Coolidge "was interested" in Shakespeare — wonderful phrase — and liked to own good editions. The President invited Rosenbach to bring the original manuscript of Alice in Wonderland to lunch at the White House. The famous book collector explained that the first edition, which displeased Lewis Carroll, was suppressed. "Suppressed?" said the President, "I did not know there was anything off-color in Alice."

Good Enough

When Coolidge learned that the government had paid $150,000 for a copy of the Gutenberg Bible, together with three thousand other books from the Fifteenth Century, he cried out almost in an agony: "I should think that an ordinary copy of the King James version would have been good enough for those congressmen."

Once Mr. Mearns had to assemble the books in the White House after the place had been renovated. A dog persisted in

As Our Readers See It

More Recreation Facilities

With the holidays drawing to a close, questions again arise in the public mind as to access to our beaches. If shore rights are at the discretion of the Government, it, in other words, the shoreline belongs to the people, it seems odd that access points are so scarce in this southern part of the Island and that waterfront has drifted mostly into private hands.

A boat is free to go anywhere if you can get it into the water, but we are told there is a two-year waiting list for moorage at many marine stations. A boat ramp and beach access every few miles is a pressing problem with our increasing population.

Tenting has become tremendously popular. It was difficult enough to find a park site before the Rogers Pass opened up B.C. to Albertans, who have greatly increased the problem of where to find a place for the night.

The Department of Recreation says it has the method if it could find the means. The Parks Branch seems to be torn between the urge to provide further accommodation (Long Beach and other points) and keeping its present sites in decent shape. Garibaldi Park and Lac la Hache each has only one faucet for hundreds of campers; Goldstream Park and Cultus Lake roads are a disgrace, while the gift to the Government of seventy acres at Bamberton still stands where it started four years ago with only fifty camp sites, many overgrown and in dangerous disrepair. The camp warden stood at the main road entrance on a recent Sunday turning cars away because the small car park was full long before noon.

Imagine driving over twenty miles from Victoria for a family picnic to find you cannot park at a public beach! This leads us to ask, could the Government "spare a dime" for these public pursuits before it buries us under a load of millions of debt for commercial development forecast for the next 50 years, by which time many of us won't be here.

What's the Hurry?

Should Highways Minister Gagliardi have his way it foreshadows not only the perpetuation of our indiscriminate highway slaughter, but worse still its inevitable ghastly increase.

Apparently we cannot exterminate folk rapidly enough at the going rate of 60 miles an hour—70 would dispatch them with greater finesse.

This strange affinity for shrieking tires, blurred countryside and hell-bent motors constitutes a lethal obsession bordering on sheer lunacy. Surely there is more to life than this unholy neurosis of leaping, bounding and dashing.

In point of fact, what's the hurry? What is this hypnotic destination that impels seemingly normal people to abandon every vestige of common sense?

Truly it illustrates how our aesthetic values have been ruthlessly subordinated to a mad desire to get nowhere ten times as fast. By and large we appear to have progressed in knowledge but regressed in wisdom. As someone aptly said: "Knowledge is static, wisdom active—thus wisdom moves knowledge."

This entire concept of doing things faster, dashing hither and thither like disorganized drunken bees, bodes ill for humanity. By retaining sanity on the freeways, society may still save itself from its own would-be suicide.

Trial Period for MPs

The fast action taken by the federal MPs in increasing their own salaries by such liberal amounts, certainly indicates that they must all be into debt with the finance and loan companies and required a lump sum to square themselves off. The hard luck stories we hear about having to keep up two houses, etc., sound tough, but this factor did not count when they were fighting to get elected.

Why are this select few entitled to such a large amount of their pay tax free? Let the same principle apply to the balance of the wage-earners across the country, and the revenue department's finances would be in pretty grim shape.

A few veteran members have earned the right to be in the higher pay brackets, but for a large number who are inexperienced, surely a period of at least three years should be put in office so that they could prove their value to the position and pay calculated on the basis of attendance while the House is in session.

When the campaigning for an election is going on, they all seem to be able to spare the time, and expense is of no concern in order to get elected. Once in, the cry of poverty begins.

The old age pensioner can sweat it out waiting for a $10 a month increase, if there is enough left in the pot to go around.

Emily Carr's Grave

I was wandering through Ross Bay Cemetery recently, looking at graves of old-timers, when I came across Emily Carr's. Could you tell me if anyone intends to fix it up or is it just to be forgotten?

It is one of the largest plots there, and all it has as a marker is a little slab in one corner with Emily Carr's name, birth-date, etc. I think there should be a decent monument and it should also tell the names of the other members of her family. The ground is sinking as well.

I've tried to inquire around but there doesn't seem to be anyone that knows but maybe some organization would look into it as it wouldn't cost a great deal to maintain once it was put in order.

Refreshing

It is refreshing to note that an official in the Anglican Lords Congress admitted that no particular religion or sect, held a monopoly on that mysterious power some call God; some other things. It gives some promise of development of human intelligence.

May we look forward to the time when those who wax fat on preaching and publishing superstition, will be forced to do something more useful to society.

Disgusted With Small Talk

I was glad to find at least one woman who was willing to express her views publicly on the article in the Times on a woman's smug idea of staying home in Victoria and leaving her husband to go and do his duty alone.

What of her vows on her wedding day? Is she doing her duty leaving him to go alone?

Another thing, what of the still dozens of homes on this Island alone that do not have bathrooms and many other conveniences and yet bring up a nice-size family to be proud of?

I get disgusted with such small talk. It's about time some of these young folk developed some common sense and learned to keep their families together. Some of the loveliest people in the world, and cleanest, live away from this country. I know, I have met them.

Pleasant Memories of City

We would let Victoria and its people know how well we now and always shall think of them. That will be with gratitude and a "how nice" feeling.

Two weeks ago when visiting we needed medical attention for one of our boys and received it from the emergency room of your St. Joseph's Hospital with both great care and courtesy. (And it was midnight, too.)

So we were not only charmed by your lovely city but also learned how you treat your visitors in other ways.

With such pleasant memories we have hopes of returning next year for a longer stay.

Accusation From a Cell

IT WAS SURPRISING TO READ last week that at least one lay delegate to the Anglican World Congress in Toronto had urged the church to stay aloof from the current struggle for racial equality in the United States. It has been even more surprising from time to time to read of Negroes being turned away from the church doors of various denominations in the southern states.

If a Christian church is to have anything in common with its founder, surely a basic premise is the brotherhood of all men. Even congregations which do not permit colored men and women to enter their churches do not claim that Heaven will be segregated. How then, do they reconcile their own behavior?

In the August issue of The Atlantic, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., the eminent fighter for Negro rights, has a long letter written while he was in Birmingham jail for staging street demonstrations. He addresses his words to "eight white religious leaders of the South" who had decied the recent Negro protests as "unwise and untimely."

The letter, written in longhand in King's cell, constitutes one of the most literate and significant documents yet to appear on behalf of the Negro integrationists.

Answering the church leaders' charge of impatience, he says: "For years now I have heard the word 'wait.' It rings in the ear of every Negro with a piercing familiarity. This 'wait' has almost always meant 'never'."

And defending the Negro protests he says: "History is the long and tragic story of the fact that privileged groups seldom give up their privileges voluntarily."

Again, King writes: "In the midst of a mighty struggle to rid our nation of racial and economic injustice, I have heard so many ministers say, 'These are social issues which the gospel has nothing to do with. . . .'"

And he warns: "If the church of today does not recapture the sacrificial spirit of the early church, it will lose its authentic ring, forfeit the loyalty of millions, and be dismissed as an irrelevant social club with no meaning for the twentieth century."

Those are strong words and they will be given deep thought in both clerical and lay circles. A great many people today cannot understand why churches of all denominations in the United States are not leading the fight for Negro rights. Many a church leader has thrown his weight into the struggle, it is true. But for many other leaders and their congregations history will record the movement for Negro equality as an opportunity lost, a trust unfulfilled.

Highways: Delight Or Disillusion?

THE PROPOSAL TO DEVELOP provincial lands along the right-of-way of the new Patricia Bay highway as park strips had been given unanimous support by the city and all the municipalities. Now it has received provincial government approval and a major step toward beautification of Greater Victoria's northern approach has been taken. The Capital Region Planning Board, which sponsored the idea, is to be congratulated.

This is a good start toward a much greater concept—a system of green park strips bordering the highway from Swartz Bay to Victoria as well as along the Island Highway to Goldstream. This would constitute a priceless asset for all the lower Island—a constant delight for residents and a memorable feature for visitors.

It is a farseeing project, but surely not an impossible one. If it is to be done, however, assembly of the land cannot be long delayed.

The ideal, of course, would be for the government, when acquiring land for highways, to buy enough to permit parkway development where that is desirable. This would be a major beautification scheme highly suitable for the entry way into cities—particularly the capital city.

The practice is followed in some other parts of Canada and more extensively in the United States, where fine highways leading to big centres run through park-like areas for miles.

British Columbia favors such an approach, in principle, for Victoria, but has yet to get around to transforming approval in principle to actual fact.

As a beginning, the plan to use excess land acquired for road-making purposes running out to Pat Bay, and along other parts of the Island Highway reasonably close to town, is good. It will be better when it expands.

Rare Diseases

Ordinarily, I am reluctant to describe in this column diseases so rare that I have never seen a case. But through the years I discovered that because this column is seen by so many people, scores of them are always anxious to learn about some rare disease that they have, or perhaps a loved one has. Often when I describe a rare disease, many persons write to say that at long last they know what is wrong with them and they are comforted. They say: "What you describe is exactly what I have." Then they will want to know where to find a doctor who knows enough about the disease to cure it.

Alvarez

Obviously, no one can have an extensive experience with a very rare disease unless he works in some huge medical institution, like the great U.S. government research hospitals in Bethesda, Maryland, or the Memorial Hospital for cancer research in New York City, a great university clinic, a clinic like Mayo's at Rochester, Minn., the Cleveland Clinic, the Lahey Clinic (in Boston), the Scott-White Clinic (at Temple, Texas), or many more which, if I had the space, I would gladly mention here.

I was just reading a splendid article by Drs. D. H. Paulson, D. S. Schuster, and E. M. Farber of Stanford University School of Medicine in California. They have combined the Hand-Schüller-Christian disease with the Letterer-Siwe disease and some others which seem to be related, and for this combination they use the new term, Histiocytosis X. The X means that no one knows what this puzzling and many symptomized disease is due to. It can be acute and widely progressive, or it can be benign and localized, and more or less harmless.

The disease appears not to be hereditary. It can appear in children. Often there is a large liver and large spleen with localized tumors in the bones. Also fever, anemia, a low white blood count, and a painless enlargement of the lymph nodes in the neck, the armpits, and the groins accompany this disease. Other complications include, the skin, bulging eyeballs, diabetes insipidus with a great thirst, the passage of enormous amounts of urine, bronze pigmentation of parts of the skin, blood clots under the skin, and yellow flecks on the skin.

Often in these puzzling cases the diagnosis can be made by performing what is called a biopsy on one of the nodules on the skin. A little piece of affected skin is snipped off, sectioned, stained, and examined under a microscope. The treatment includes exposure to X-rays, or to the electron beam from a linear accelerator, or the giving of a powerful drug called nitrogen mustard, or of antibiotics and the cortico-steroids, which are related to cortisone.

Because a few people keep asking me what Hashimoto's disease is, I will mention here a fine paper by Drs. K. L. Becker, R. H. Ferguson and W. M. McConahey. They studied records of 506 patients with Hashimoto's chronic thyroiditis (inflammation of the thyroid gland in the front of the neck) seen in recent years at the Mayo Clinic. What is particularly interesting is that in almost a quarter of the persons in the group, there were symptoms and findings that suggested the presence of a collagen disease of the whole body. Collagen diseases are peculiar and puzzling ones in which it looks as if a small part of the body has been attacked and injured by other parts because the body has become allergic to the small part such as a joint in the hands, or part of an artery, or a bit of skin or muscle.

Four per cent of the patients with the thyroiditis had definite or probable rheumatoid arthritis, with its great pain, weakness and deformity of the joints in the hand. Perhaps 10 per cent had pains in a number of bones and muscles.

These observations are likely to be valuable because they will help physicians to find a better treatment for the thyroiditis. Today, much research is being done in an effort to throw light on the chemistry of these puzzling and often very distressing diseases. As I have said here in this column, we know they are related if only because in the case of one patient, rheumatoid arthritis can change into a generalized lupus erythematosus, or vice-versa.

I am afraid this discussion will be of little interest to the average reader, but it will be of tremendous interest to anyone who is suffering from a collagen disease. He keeps daily watching the horizon for a word of hope.

STORE BLAST THEFT 'COVER'

MONTREAL (CP)—Quebec provincial police said Sunday night an abortive attempt to blow up a discount store in the west end suburb of Lasalle was "probably intended to cover up a theft by making it look like terrorist subversion."

Twenty-two sticks of dynamite, attached in pairs to columns supporting the store's roof were found by police early Sunday.

REBUILDING CONGRESS

Nehru Takes Power From Successors

By HENRY BRADSHAW

NEW DELHI (AP)—India's Prime Minister Nehru has opened a new phase in the struggle among politicians who want to succeed him, taking governmental power away from most leading contenders.

A dozen men are resigning from Nehru's cabinet and the leadership of state governments to work full time in his Congress Party, which dominates Indian politics.

The arranged resignations come as the weight of 16 years of rule begins to show in the prime minister's weary face.

They are a drastic reaction to Nehru's failure to deal sooner with mounting Congress Party problems. The party has been increasingly torn by factional fighting for the spoils of office. Charges of corruption and nepotism are widely accepted in India.

SOME RELUCTANT

In an effort to revitalize the party, its governing body gave the 73-year-old prime minister the power to accept resignations from those who would be more valuable in party work than in governmental posts. Some resignations were tendered with marked reluctance.

Nehru's decision to accept the resignations of six heads of state governments seems to have been based mainly on banishing troublemakers.

At least four of the six are under pressure of party factionalism or are accused of corruption. More state leaders are likely to go later.

NEW U.S. TREATMENT PROGRAM

More Wheat for Hungry

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—A decision by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration is going to mean more food on the table for millions of hungry people around the world, says a University of Michigan professor.

The FDA has approved the gamma radiation of wheat and wheat products to control insects and permit long-term storage—a 12-year project of Dr. Lloyd E. Brownell, professor of chemistry and metallurgical engineering and nuclear engineering.

"The rest of the world has been waiting for the United States to make up its mind on the safety of using irradiated wheat products," Brownell said.

The International Atomic Energy Agency of the United Nations has recommended that the UN regard as an emergency the wheat situation and storage problems in India and other tropical and sub-tropical countries with a food problem, he said. It has recommended that the UN advance India the money to build a prototype radiation plant capable of processing 200 tons of wheat an hour.

UN WAS WAITING

But, the professor added in an interview, it was waiting for someone to determine that the use of irradiated wheat is safe.

Wheat saved by radiation, which would otherwise be lost through insect infestation, could feed some 300,000 people a year, Brownell said.

India, he explained, imports 10,000,000 bushels of wheat a year from the U.S., but loses as much as one-third to insects before it can be distributed.

In temperate climates, two or three insecticide treatments a year are enough to keep insects in wheat under control. In Britain's cool climate, one treatment is sufficient. But in India, the ever-present insect eggs hatch in two or three weeks.

In proper doses, radiation does not affect the taste or baking quality of wheat, Brownell said, adding:

"Even the maximum dosage needed to control every insect known and produce 100 per cent sterilization has no noticeable effect on the wheat."

PREDICTS BIG INDUSTRY

Radiation, Brownell predicted, will become a billion-dollar industry within 10 years—without harming the insecticide or refrigeration industries.

HOME-GARDEN

Clear Decks for Fall Shows

September promises to be a busy month for gardeners with almost a record number of shows and fairs scheduled in Victoria and district.

If we are to feel free to attend them all, as we shall surely want to, these next few days should be devoted to catching up with any small jobs which will not bear waiting until late next month.

Picking out seedlings of perennials which may still be in seed boxes or beds is one which should be done first. Giving them more space to grow will allow the seedlings to make a root system large enough to take them safely through the winter outdoors.

Another job to get done is the scrubbing of flower pots. It may be only a couple of dozen, but next month you'll be glad to have them clean when they are needed in a hurry.

When they are ready to use, it is likely that several plants will be found which would be better off in larger pots. If the plants are ones such as geraniums, ferns or anything else which will go on growing indoors for another couple of months or so, it is safe to pot now into one size larger.

Small plants of Christmas flowering cactus may be put into slightly larger pots, being careful not to overpot or to overwater. To have the garden at its loveliest during the fall season just commencing, it is necessary to see that all faded flowers on the summer blooming plants are promptly removed.

This does not mean cutting back the plants entirely to ground level, for much of the foliage is attractive in the fall color scheme and of course is useful to the plant so long as it remains in good condition.

Annuals such as zinnias and the large African marigolds need to have the old flowers cut off as they fade. Flowering will be prolonged and the general appearance of things will be fresh and attractive.

With a wealth of true fall flowers commencing their display, the garden can be as glowing during the next six weeks as at any time of the year.

SYNOPSIS—An upper level disturbance has moved from Washington to the B.C. interior, bringing scattered showers and a few thunderstorms to these areas. Shower activity will diminish in the interior Tuesday as the system continues north-eastward. Not much change is expected to occur along the coast. Northern areas have considerable fog and low cloud over the water and along the coast line. However, most of the south coast locations will have some sunshine.

Policemen Shot

LODI, N.J. (AP)—Two policemen were shot to death in a tavern Monday by a gunman who forced them to strip to their underwear. The policemen had answered a disturbance call at the bar around 3 a.m. Killed were Detective Sgt. Peter Voto, father of three children, and Patrolman Garry Tedesco, who was single.

Scare What We Needed, Says Day

CALGARY (CP) — Injuries could force some lineup changes before Calgary Stampede and British Columbia Lions meet tonight in an attempt to bludge each other's unbeaten record in the Western Football Conference.

Calgary is on top of the Western Conference with four straight wins and Vancouver is one game behind.

Calgary coach Bobby Dobbs said it's difficult to know whether any Stampede will have to sit out tonight's game.

Don Luzzi is nursing a muscle injury sustained against Saskatchewan Friday and may be forced to the sidelines.

American end Conrad Hitchler, injured in an interlocking game against Hamilton Tiger-Cats, has been put on the reserve injury list. Larry Robinson and Henry Huth will be available for deep defensive duty if necessary.

The Lions have one big question: Whether Mike Cacic and Tom Brown will be in shape for the team's road trip which starts tonight. If Brown isn't ready, fullback-linebacker Don Vico may be in Brown's interior line position.

Emery Barnes, a defensive end, has been working out at tackle and coach Dave Skrien said Barnes may be moved to end. Dick Pouts or Mike Martin would then be able to take over Cacic's slot.

Calgary quarterback Eagle Day said the squeaker win in Regina Friday night, when the Stampede barely won 17-16, was probably just what Calgary needed.

"A scare like this will help," he said. "Maybe if we had won by a big score, we would have relaxed for the Lions. Now maybe we will be ready for them."

Dobbs wasn't impressed with his club's showing in Regina

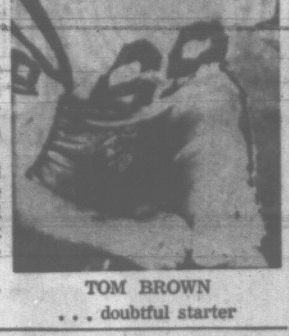

"We played like cats on a hot tin roof. Really, we didn't play well."

Skrien isn't looking for any ripe plums. Any suggestion that the Stampede reached their peak early and are set to burn out are discounted by him.

"Looking for them to fold is just wishful thinking," he said. The Stampede started the season practically "a pat lineup and lots of experience as a unit."

It's a natural peak Calgary is riding, he said.

Up and over goes world record-holder John Pennel.

Foster Keeps String Intact

Billy Foster, planning to rebuild his car for next weekend's Daffodil Cup event at Western Speedway, overcame mechanical trouble at Haney Saturday and Sunday to keep his victory streak intact.

The Victoria driving ace, who has won every trophy event he has entered this season on the Canadian-American Modified Racing Association circuit, "blew" a clutch in eliminations during the two-day Haney meet.

For a while, Foster appeared a doubtful starter for Sunday's main event, but rapid repairs got the machine back on the track in time for him to capture the main event from runner-up Nibs Anderson of Nanaimo.

Foster passed every car at least twice as he won the featured 75-lap Dogwood event. Billy won both his events Saturday—the modified trophy dash and 35-lap main event—as well as establishing a track record of 15.08 seconds for the quarter-mile oval.

Al Smith of Victoria was nosed out by six inches in Sunday's trophy dash. Victory gave Foster valuable points in his duel with Bill Crow, Boise, Idaho, for the 1963 driving championship on the CAMRA circuit.

Elsewhere and otherwise: IN SOCCER — Fans who caused disturbances at a Glasgow; Scotland, match between local rivals, Rangers and Celtic, were dealt with severely in court today.

Thirty-three out of 38 men arrested were committed to prison for four days for examination.

Four others were fined $10 with the option of 60 days imprisonment — the maximum sentence — on charges of breaking the peace.

The remaining man was fined $2 on a charge of being drunk and incapable.

The magistrates said they

McCormick, Maysmith Make Team

OTTAWA — Don McCormick, Canadian junior closed tennis champion, and Marg Maysmith, both of Victoria, were named Saturday to the Canadian junior tennis team.

The 12-member team travelled to Lake Placid, N.Y., over the weekend to compete against the eastern U.S. team in an annual match.

Miss Maysmith and Theodor Booker of Victoria failed in their bids to capture mixed doubles titles in the Canadian junior open tennis championships, which finished here Saturday, as Americans scored a clean sweep of the 12 divisions.

Peaches Bartkovich of Hamtramck, Mich., won the girls' under-18 singles crown, with Bill Harris of West Palm Beach, Fla., capturing the boys' under-18 singles match.

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Casual Johnny Pott hurled back Arnold Palmer's challenge Sunday and captured the $50,000 American Golf Classic by four strokes with a score of 276.

Pott, taking down the top prize of $9,000 and scoring his first tournament victory of the year, shot a par 35-35—70 final round and tied the Firestone Club course record for four rounds set by Palmer last year.

Palmer, who had shaved five strokes from Pott's lead with a 66 Saturday, pulled into a tie on the first hole Sunday, but quickly fell behind.

The 27-year-old Pott scored three birdies before he went two over par on the ninth hole. Then he steadily pulled away.

Palmer took second money of $4,600 to become the first golfer in history to go over the $100,000 mark in one year. He has a total of $101,555 in official earnings.

He finished with a 37-36—73 for 260.

Pott started with an opening round 67 Thursday and stayed in front the rest of the way, boosting his earnings to $23,115.

U.S. open champion Julius Boros finished third with 37-34—71 and a total for $3,000, one stroke ahead of Dave Hill, who shot sub-par rounds for the day—a 34-35—69.

Jack Nicklaus, Masters and PGA champion, fired a final round of 35-37—72 for 283 and tied for fifth with British Open champion Bob Charles, who had a closing 37-34—71. Each collected $2,200.

Money leaders:
Johnny Pott, $9,000, 276.
Arnold Palmer, $4,600, 280.
Julius Boros, $3,000, 281.
Dave Hill, $2,600, 282.
Bob Charles, $2,200, 283.

Ted Kroll, $750, 290.
Juan Rodriguez, $750, 290.
Al Geiberger, $650, 290.

IN GENERAL — American aces Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston won the U.S. doubles tennis title Sunday at Brookline, Mass. They downed the favored Mexican duo of Antonio Palafox and Rafael Osuna 9-7, 4-6, 5-7, 6-3, 11-9.

In the women's doubles final, Australians Margaret Smith and Robyn Ebbenn whipped Darlene Hard, Los Angeles, and Carla Bueno, Brazil.

Ann Barley, formerly of Vancouver, won the Quebec women's open tennis title Sunday at Montreal with a victory over Shirley Harit, Montreal.

Troubled by a back injury and planning to retire next week from competitive tennis, Miss Marley lost out in doubles and mixed doubles finals.

Steady Anne Quast Wells, a Mount Vernon, Wash., school teacher, Saturday won the U.S. women amateur golf title at Williamstown, Mass., beating Spokane's Peggy Conley, 2 and 1.

England's Hopes Dim — Ace Bowler Injured
LONDON (AP) — Conrad Hunte and Willie Rodriguez today took the West Indians' score to 71 for no wickets in the second innings of the fifth and final cricket Test match against England. That score made the West Indians firm favorites to win.

England scored 275 in the first innings and 223 in the second, while the West Indies had 246 in the first innings.

The West Indians, one up in the series thus needed only 182 runs to win with another day's play left.

England took the field without fast bowler Freddie Trueman, who has an injured foot. He came on later in the morning, sent down one over and then limped off the ground once again.

The West Indians won two of the first four test matches. England won one, with the other drawn. So England needed to take this final one to square the series.

Once again a sell-out crowd of about 27,000—a third of them West Indian fans—packed London's Oval Stadium.

JOHN PENNEL FIRST . . . TO CLEAR 17 FEET

Vaulters Had a Secret

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — John Pennel, the Northeast Louisiana State College senior who became the first man to pole vault 17 feet has done it twice. Pennel rocketed over the crossbar at 17 feet, three-quarter inch in the Florida Gold Coast AAU track and field championships Saturday and officials said they felt certain the performance would stand as a world record.

The 23-year-old Miamian's record-shattering effort broke his own mark of 16 feet, 10½ inches established in London Aug. 5. Pennel revealed that he had cleared 17 feet earlier last week in the privacy of the practice field.

"I knew when I cleared 17 feet in practice that I had a chance for it," he said. "I rocked back more than I ever have on the way up and I moved the vaulting standards in closer. I found out I had been putting the standards too far back."

Pennel kept his 17-foot practice leap a secret and even made his mother promise not to divulge it.

"I didn't want anyone to know about it," he said. "Practice vaults don't count in the record books and it may have been a quarter of an inch higher or lower when I made it."

"But when I cleared it that day, I knew I had 17 feet licked. That first time is the big one. Once you've got it licked in your mind, the rest is easy."

Teen-Age Girls May Force Some of Boys to Give Up

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP) — Unless Canada's teen-age girls slow down, a lot of young men may develop inferiority complexes.

Brawn didn't highlight the two-day Canadian age-class track championships which ended Saturday but, rather, three pert young women.

Yvonne Breeden of Vancouver, Cathy Chapman of Toronto's Don Mills' Track Club and Abigail Hoffman of Toronto Olympic Club were standouts in a record field of 558 athletes from across the country.

"If their times keep getting faster, some of the boys may quit in disgust," quipped Ken Twigg of Toronto, national track chairman for the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

Yvonne and Cathy led an assault that produced 44 broken records over the two days, 18 Friday and 26 Saturday.

Yvonne entered three sprints — 60, 100 and 200 metres — and broke records in all three. She then anchored the British Columbia 400-metre relay team to another record.

WINS OVER-ALL TITLE
Cathy, a 15-year-old blonde who is perfection in the hurdles, also broke three records and helped the Don Mills relay team to another. In addition, her wins in the 80-metre hurdles, 60 metres and 200 metres and seconds in the 100 metres and broad jump gave her the over-all midjet women's title.

Abby's big moment was Friday when she ran against the wind in the 400 metres in 55.5 seconds to break her own Canadian open senior record of 56.5.

Yvonne tied the Canadian open and native senior marks in 60 metres and the native senior mark in the 200 metres — despite two bad starts.

Her 7.5-second 60-metres time equaled that of Viola Meyers of Hamilton who set the mark 15 years ago. And a 24.5 clocking over 200 metres equalled the mark held by Eleanor Haslam of Saskatoon.

Both easily shattered the old juvenile records as did her 12.2 in the 100 metres.

B.C. TOP TEAM
British Columbia took the team title with 303 points in a two-team battle. Don Mills, the leader after Friday's events, finished second with 248. In third place, despite not having any record-breakers, was Quebec with 154.

Roger Mercier of Squamish, B.C., was the junior men's under-20 champ with 24 points. Mike Dowdy of Vancouver was best in the juvenile under-18 class with 30.

IN 11 INNINGS
Softball Vets Battle to Tie
Veterans shrugged off the years Sunday at Central Park and hustled to an 11-inning deadlock with McLaren, of the Heywood Avenue Senior Men's League.

Playing in a benefit game for injured players, Tony Gee and Eddie Loo, the old-timers, some out of action for several seasons, came from behind to knot the count with three ninth-inning runs and then battled through two scoreless frames to a 10-10 tie.

In a previous clash, the vets were leading 2-0 after two innings when rain stopped play. Collections at the two exhibitions raised $81.

Junior Rocks Can Expect Earlier Alarm

By DOUG PEDEN

Victoria Junior Shamrocks were somewhat drowsy Sunday, but you can wager a dime or two that coach Tommy Druce will have the alarm clock ringing early for the fourth game in the provincial junior lacrosse final.

Holding a 2-0 lead in the best-of-five series with South Vancouver Legion, the Rocks were expected to wrap it up when the clubs tangled in the third game Sunday at Memorial Arena.

And they might have done just that if they had come prepared for battle.

But the Irish appeared to be suffering from a case of over-confidence as they wandered onto the floor with only time for half a dozen warmup shots before the opening faceoff.

The Legion lads, after loosening up muscles briskly and sharpening shooting eyes for 10 minutes, were ready and eager. They took charge in the opening minutes and never looked back.

OPENING SURGE

Flitting past and around the sluggish Shamrocks, Legion went in front at 1:22 on a goal by Gord Fredrickson. Bill Robinson was in 32 seconds later to make it 2-0. Then it was Joe Hamlin and Robinson again before a fourth-minute penalty to Vancouver's Mike Ramberg gave the Rocks a chance to work their odd-man play.

Even that didn't help. Fredrickson broke loose to make it 5-0 at 5:14 and Legion had more than enough to force a fourth game on the mainland Thursday night.

Although the Shamrocks, 1963 Canadian champions, perked up considerably after the opening barrage, they never came close to flashing the wide-awake hustle they displayed while winning the first two tussles by 12-7 and 9-8 counts.

ROBINSON SHINES

The Irish trailed 5-1 at the quarter, 8-3 at half time and 9-4 going into the final period. Shamrocks scored only their final quarter goal by Rod Nesbit, while the teams were at equal strength. Three Victoria goals came on the odd-man play, one while the Irish were short-handed.

Robinson, a standout through the series, again paced the Legion crew, collecting four goals. Fredrickson was also a tough handful for the Rocks, earning two goals and two assists.

Hamlin also scored twice and single tallies came from Al Ciccone, Andy Danylieu and Bob Salt.

Dave Collett, with two goals, Mike Woodley, Glen Vickers and Nesbit counted for the Irish.

PLAYERS MAY DECIDE
"They usually start slow," Druce said of his charges, "but they never came on this time. It will be different in the next game."

With the loss may also have come a change in the plan to loan Bill Munroe, Vickers and Rod Kilduff to the senior Shamrocks for tonight's crucial game at the arena. The big Rocks, trailing New Westminster 3-2 in the best-of-seven semifinal, need a win tonight to stay alive.

"They need a rest," said Druce, who may leave it up to the players to decide if they should help out their big brothers again.

Hockey Star Dies

MONTREAL (CP) — Reginald (Hooley) Smith, 60, star forward in four National Hockey League teams from 1924 until he retired in 1941, died Saturday.

Next game: Tonight—B.C. Lions at Calgary.

MAN TO WATCH for Victoria Shamrocks in Inter-City Lacrosse League playoff game at Memorial Arena is New Westminster scoring ace Jack Blonda (above). Rocks need win to stay alive in semifinal series. Game time is 8:30.

Ticats In Lead

HAMILTON (CP) — Half-back Tommy Grant scored on two long pass-and-run plays Saturday night as Hamilton Tiger-Cats defeated Ottawa Rough Riders 20-16 to take over sole possession of first place in the Eastern Football Conference.

The 28-year-old veteran scored on plays going 55 and 24 yards on passes from quarterback Bernie Faloney.

For Near-Record Loser, Miller Comes Long Way

By Associated Press

For a guy who came very near to being a record-breaking loser for baseball's losingest team, Bob Miller has come a long way in a year. He's now a bullpen star for a club driving to a pennant.

The 24-year-old right hander picked up another victory Sunday as Los Angeles Dodgers boosted their National League lead to 6½ games with a 2-1 decision over the Milwaukee Braves.

Miller came on in the ninth inning, after Braves had pulled into a tie against Sandy Koufax, got the third out, and became a winner when Doug Camilli's single cashed in a Dodger run in the last of the inning.

Miller went from starter to full-time reliever two weeks ago and has been a good one. He's allowed just one run in 28 innings over seven games, has run his record to 9-8, and has been credited with two saves.

It was vastly different last year, when he lost his first 12 decisions with New York Mets and only stayed out of the record book by edging Chicago Cubs 2-1 on the next to last day of the season. If he had dropped that one, for an 0-13 mark, it would have been a big league record for most defeats by a winless pitcher. Mets, of course, did make the record book by losing 120 times.

GRAND SLAM BLOW

Frank Robinson's grand slam homer in the eighth inning powered Cincinnati Reds over Giants 8-7, and Houston Colts defeated Cardinals 3-1 on three unearned runs and Jim Umbricht's sharp relief.

Philadelphia Phillies downed Pittsburgh Pirates 4-2 on Johnny Callison's 11th-inning homer and lefty Dick Ellis' win became an 18-game winner as Cubs trimmed the Mets 3-1.

LETTIES SHINE

In a fine afternoon of pitching at Yankee Stadium, southpaws Al Downing and Gary Peters starred as New York's American League-leading Yankees split a doubleheader with the Chicago White Sox. Downing held the Sox hitless through seven innings in a 4-0 opening game shutout for the Yanks, and Peters won his 10th straight with a six-hitter in the second game, going all the way in a 12-inning 2-1 triumph.

Minnesota took over second place tripping Baltimore 5-3 in 10 innings.

Detroit completed a five-game sweep of Kansas City, downing the A's 11-5 and 4-3.

Homers by Dick Phillips and Jim King led Washington over the Los Angeles Angels 4-1.

Bays Slick in Field; Topple Incogs Twice

Oak Bay proved to be double trouble for Incogs over the weekend and has taken over first place in the Victoria and District Cricket Association league race.

The Bays stepped by Cowichan into the top spot Saturday with a nine-wicket win over Incogs.

Incogs bumped into the sharp fielding of the Oak Bay side again Sunday in the first round of the association's Knockout Cup competition and were beaten by 28 runs.

Dave Phillip (25 runs), Maurice Tate (22) and Walter Tate (19) helped Oak Bay to 111 for

Balding Edges Leonard

EDMONTON—Veteran Al Balding wrecked Stan Leonard's bid for a ninth Canadian Professional Golfers' Association title here Saturday as he fired a blistering, five-under-par 65 to finish two strokes ahead of the Vancouver ace.

Balding also erased Leonard's tournament record as he won the 54-hole event with 202, one stroke better than the previous best established by Leonard when he won his eighth PGA title in 1961 at Quebec City.

Victory was worth $2,000 to the Toronto professional, who had earlier rounds of 69 and 68.

Leonard shot a one-under 69 Saturday, but it wasn't enough to protect the two-stroke lead he had carried into the final round.

MUNN TIES NORMAN

Third was Billy Wright Jr., of St. Albert, Alta. The 22-year-old 120-pounder carded 68-69-70-207 and won $950.

Montreal's Al Johnston was fourth and Ron MacLeod of Victoria, despite a last-round 72, finished in a three-way tie for fifth with Jack Bissenger, Val Morin, Que., and Bud Loftus, Calgary.

Dick Munn of Victoria, also finishing with 72, tied with Moe Norman and three others at 213. Another Victoria golfer, Norm Boden, now a pro at Chemunus, B.C., had a 69 Saturday but was well back with a 219 total.

Tackle on Waivers

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI)—The Western Football Conference British Columbia Lions announced today they have placed import tackle Ray Osborne on the Canadian Football League's waiver list.

Young Tee Aces Agree Colwood Is Deceptive

"Tougher than it looks."

That was the way some of the country's junior golf aces were describing the Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club course today while getting acquainted with the 6,302-yard layout in preparation for the Canadian junior championship.

Several of the youthful swingers who will tee off on Tuesday morning in the 36-hole qualifying test arrived too late Sunday to take a look at the course. Some, arriving late in the afternoon, had time for only a partial round. But all were out today.

Some of the earlier arrivals played 18 or more holes Sunday and they agreed that Colwood's par 70 is deceiving. They found the well-groomed layout rewarded length and accuracy off many tees and had trouble waiting for wandering shots.

One of the entrants who had praise for the tree-lined course was Seattle's Orrin Vincent, who carded a one-over-par 71 Sunday.

TEAM MATCH

"I like it, but it can fool you," he said. "It's a tough course."

Vincent was playing with Victoria's Gary Smith, who also had a 71, and Neil Murray of Vancouver, who came in with a par 70.

Smith and Ricky Kent of Victoria will join forces with the Vancouver duo of Doug Robb and Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver to represent B.C. in the interprovincial team match that will be played in conjunction with Tuesday's morning and afternoon qualifying rounds.

The 32 low scorers Tuesday will qualify for match play—two 18-hole rounds Wednesday and Thursday and the 36-hole final Friday.

Playoff Tied Up, Decider Tonight

Kasapi Construction and Duncan Storage broke even in a twin bill Sunday and will clash at Central Park at 6:30 tonight to decide the playoff title of the Independent Athletic Association Softball League.

Opening the best-of-three final Sunday, Kasapi got a two-hit pitching effort from Mike Rye to down Duncan 11-1. In the second game, Duncan came from behind to squeeze out a 4-3 triumph in 10 innings.

SOLUTION WEDNESDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Anthony Quinn, the secretaries' and housewives' dream guy, is now obtaining a formal separation from Katherine DeMille, his wife for 23 years and mother of his four children, so that he can carry out his determination to "live".

But there'll be no divorce.

This means—I've just learned from Europe—that the tall, 48-year-old Mexican-Irish ex-boxer, ex-cab driver and two-time Oscar winner will not be marrying the Italian girl whom he recently acknowledged to be the mother of his baby son.

"This is the best thing for all the children," Mrs. Quinn, daughter of the late Cecil B. DeMille, would say—and no more.

Mrs. Quinn met Tony and the Italian girl, Yolanda Adoloni, together a couple of weeks ago in Versailles where he's living while doing a film. Their separation is not strictly a "legal" separation since no court is involved, merely attorneys.

The separation plans include sale of their E. 70th St. town house and support of the children, Christina, Kathleen, Duncan and Valentina. Kathleen is now in India working for Moral Rearmament, to which her mother is also devoted.

Quinn made clear repeatedly that he means to help rear the new baby son. He has been quoted in interviews as saying, "I got to act and I got to live. I got to have vitality. I got to live."

They'll wing over from San Francisco by private plane. Frank bought them a new home in Fort Lee, N.J., months ago... Tony Newley of "Stop the World" was calm about the praise for his movie, "The Small World of Sammy Lee." Shrugged Tony: "Sure, I've made lots of movies in England. I'm the British Roddy McDowall."

Gen. Lauris Norstad for President? A Midwest Republican tells me there's a "groundswell." Handsome, global, youthful-looking, the ex-NATO commander is a Minnesotan of Scandinavian descent, a West Pointer, and 56, and they say "Maybe it could happen like with Ike"... John Ringling North didn't send out announcements. But he hit 60 last week... Milton Berle's made his opening at the West-

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of World Book Encyclopedia to Margaret Curry, age 11, of Somerset, N.J., for her question:

What are cephalopods?

Some of the cephalopods are of the head-footed cephalopod. The 400 or so cephalopods belong in the phylum Mollusca, along with the crusty clams and lazy snails and a vast assortment of handsome shellfish. Of the cephalopods, the nautilus lives in a graceful shell and the octopus has no shell at all. The squid has a strip of shell buried in his flesh. The cuttle bone we put in a bird cage is a strip of shell from the fleshy back of the cuttlefish, alias the sepi.

The sepi is a squid with the sad expression of a basket hound. When threatened, he squirrels a jet of ink into the water and escapes through a murky cloud. The ink sac empties into a funnel which the squid uses to jet propel himself through the water. His torpedo-shaped body is wrapped in a mantle of loose skin which forms side flaps and fins for swimming.

Has Tentacles 50 Feet Long

The nautilus navigates on the surface of the sea. This small cephalopod uses his papery shell as a sail, letting the wind blow him over the waves. All cephalopods have suckers for grasping their prey. The giant squid of the deep ocean may have tentacles spanning 50 feet.

The story of the cephalopods dates back more than 400 million years. Fossils of more than 10,000 species have been found preserved in ancient rocks. In the dim past, most of them wore shells. Some of the first cephalopods lived in

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Anthony Quinn, the "secretaries" and housewives' dream guy, is now obtaining a formal separation from Katherine DeMille, his wife for 23 years and mother of his four children, so that he can carry out his determination to "live"...

But there'll be no divorce. This means—I've just learned from Europe—that the tall, 48-year-old Mexican-Irish ex-boxer, ex-cab driver and two-time Oscar-winner will not be marrying the Italian girl whom he recently acknowledged to be the mother of his baby son.

"This is the best thing for all the children," Mrs. Quinn, daughter of the late Cecil B. DeMille, would say—and no more.

Mrs. Quinn met Tony and the Italian girl, Jolanda Adolori, together a couple of weeks ago in Versailles where he's living while doing a film. Their separation is not strictly a "legal" separation since no court is involved, merely attorneys.

The separation plans include sale of their E. 70th St. town house and support of the children, Christina, Kathleen, Duncan and Valentina. Kathleen is now in India working for Moral Rearmament, to which her mother is also devoted.

Quinn made clear repeatedly that he means to help rear the new baby son. He has been quoted in interviews as saying, "I got to act and I got to live. I got to have vitality. I got to live."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL... Frank Sinatra's giving his parents the star treatment—he's flying them to his and Dean Martin's opening at Cal-Neva Lodge (on the California-Nevada line). They'll wing over from San Francisco by private plane. Frank bought them a new home in Fort Lee, N.J., months ago... Tony Newley of "Stop the World" was calm about the praise for his movie, "The Small World of Sammy Lee." Shrugged Tony: "Sure, I've made lots of movies in England. I'm the British Roddy McDowall."

Gen. Lauris Norstad for President? A Midwest Republican tells me there's a "groundswell." Handsome, global, youthful-looking, the NATO commander is a Minnesotan of Scandinavian descent, a West Pointer, and 56, and they say "Maybe it could happen like with Ike"... John Ringling North didn't send out announcements. But he hit 60 last week... Milton Berle's made his opening at the West-

'X' Marked the Splash

An estimated crowd of 2,000 people were treated to an afternoon of thrills and even a couple of spills Sunday at the Lake Cowichan speedboat regatta.

Hydroplane drivers from Seattle trailed their noisy boats into Lakeview Park, just west of Cowichan Village, to take part in the annual regatta sponsored by the Kiwanis Club.

George Schmitt brought his newly purchased inboard crackerbox class boat from Vancouver to race for the first time. He didn't even have time to paint a name on the boat before the regatta—it was identified by a large "X" taped on the side.

At the start of the second heat, Schmitt and three other crackers roared into the first turn.

As the pack rounded the No. 1 buoy, Schmitt's boat took a long leap, veered left, and flipped over in a plume of spray.

Bunny Jeboult of Coquitlam, who emerged eventual winner in Hot Box, said he missed Schmidt by less than five feet. Schmidt was uninjured.

Bud Peason of Vancouver, driving Miss Burrard, took second place in the race, with Max Douet of Vancouver in Buckshe finishing third.

Chemainus racer Ramon Ordano kept the crowd gasping as he won the 145 hydroplane event, driving his Wee Musketeer at near world record speeds of 85 m.p.h. in the first heat to beat Bruce MacDonald of Seattle.

MacDonald, who has won 14 of 15 races entered this season and is ranked No. 1 in North American point standings, ran into tough luck in the second heat. Slamming into a turn, water pressure ripped a six-foot section out of the bottom of his boat, Li'l Squirt, and it promptly sank.

Ring Provides Clue To Body in 'Valley'

VANCOUVER (CP)—A gold ring is believed to have given RCMP their first clue in identifying a body found Aug. 6 in fabled Headless Valley of the Nahanni River.

The body has been tentatively identified as that of Martin Wutrich, 21, a Swiss farmer, who went into the valley June 29 with Fritz Weisman, 26, a Swiss blacksmith, and Wolfgang Mahmcke, 25, an East German mechanic. No trace has been found of the other two.

The ring found on the partly-decomposed body was engraved with the initials EB, and Vancouver nurse Elizabeth Brand said Thursday that she and Wutrich exchanged gold rings bearing each other's initials last December.

"They were not really Christmas presents, nor were they engagement rings," she said. "They were just friendship rings."

The trio were last seen in the valley, 650 miles northwest of Edmonton, by a geological survey team.

They had lived here for several months before flying north to the valley to take pictures and write articles for a Swiss newspaper.

A wrecked canoe was found near the body at the base of Nahanni Falls.

At least 10 other people have died in Headless Valley, which received its name after the decapitated body of a prospector was found there near the start of the century.

Party Girl, driven by Colin MacLennan of Vancouver, placed second in over-all standings, with Bob Bell of Victoria, in Nightmare Alice, third.

Victoria's Dave Cameron outran Vic Zimmerman of Vancouver to win the B class outboard runabout event, and Jerry Magnussen of Tacoma defeated Holly Peever of Cultus Lake in the junior division.

Kiwanis Club's Lady of the Lake, Joanne Akiyama, had the toughest chore of the day—she had to present trophies.

B.C. Man Begins Fast In U.S. Jail

BALTIMORE (AP)—Bruce Henderson, 22-year-old Vancouver, B.C., pacifist, jailed for demonstrating in a public park without a permit, continued a hunger strike today.

City jail officials said Henderson refused for the second day to take solid food. But he was consuming liquids and there was no immediate danger to his health, they added.

Officials said Henderson was fasting to protest his being separated from a Negro with whom he originally had shared his jail cell.

Henderson refused to pay fines and court costs totalling $15 after his conviction on charges of making a speech and displaying a sign in a public park without permits and disobeying the order of a policeman who told him to move along.

He is serving the penalties at the rate of one day for every dollar.

Two other persons were arrested with him Thursday on similar charges. All were among 50 pacifists pausing in Baltimore on a march from Quebec to Florida.

"Though I believe that persons might be segregated on the basis of their crimes, there is no basis for segregating people on the basis of their color anywhere at any time," Henderson said.

He said that after his release from jail, due Sept. 1, he will picket the jail and hand out literature calling for integration of the cells.

Henderson said he will also appeal to the supreme court if necessary "the matter of free speech in a public park."

STAR SIGNED

NEW YORK (UPI)—Nancy Dussault, currently starring on Broadway in "The Sound of Music," has been signed to appear with David Wayne in "Apollonia and Miss Agnes," the new musical show being produced by Bob Banner Associates.

The show, based on Giraudoux's comedy, "The Apollonia of Ballac," will debut at the State Fair Music Hall in Dallas, Tex., in August. Present plans call for a Broadway opening next January.

Drylanders, the story of early settlers in Western Canada—a National Film Board feature movie in English—will be released in September.

Third Crosby Son In Marital Difficulty

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Dennis Crosby and his wife, former Las Vegas showgirl Pat Sheehan, have separated, Miss Sheehan revealed Saturday. "I'm sorry it had to happen," she said. "Dennis is a sweet person."

Miss Sheehan, 31, said she and Dennis, 29, have been separated for about a week. Dennis, one of Bing Crosby's twin sons, is the third of the four boys to experience marital difficulties. All four—Dennis, his twin Phillip, Gary and Lindsay—married Las Vegas showgirls.

Lindsay, 25, the youngest, was divorced in November.

1962 by Barbara Diane Fredrickson; after a two-year marriage, Phillip was divorced last June by Sandra Drummond; after five years of marriage, Gary, 30, the oldest, married Barbara Stuart Sept. 6, 1960, in Las Vegas.

ELECTION NOTEBOOK

Tory Launches Candidate Hunt in City

By FRANK BUTTER

First party leader to swing punches in Victoria will be Davie Fulton of the Conservatives, who arrives Tuesday.

His main mission—to recruit six candidates for the local ridings.

"He wants to get to Victoria early because he places a very high priority on it," said aide John DeWolfe.

No hint about who's on the shortlist to run here, but it's reported the leader has an appointment with one very prominent Victorian.

Mr. Fulton will also be in Victoria for a major rally during the last week of the campaign. Date and location unannounced as yet.

The Socreds are waiting for their manifesto and their candidates before plunging neck-deep in a public election campaign.

Social Credit League President Archie Browne said today the story on plans, platform and candidates will be unveiled by next week.

The "manifesto" now being "edited" may be ready Friday. It's a manifesto, not a platform, says Mr. Browne, because it isn't a reshuffle of 11 years of Social Credit, it's a complete blueprint for the future.

It will include new policy on secondary highways, medicare and power.

All 52 Socred candidates will be nominated by Sept. 9.

They rushed home from an Hawaiian honeymoon to join the election battle.

Barbara, dining with her mother in Burnaby Saturday while Ray attended an organizational meeting.

Mr. Perrault said the Sept. 30 vote date was "shameful" and purely a political move.

He said Premier Bennett's claim he wants a mandate for his two-river power policy was "patent nonsense."

"Mr. Bennett's own minister Ray Williston, stated in the house this year the Peace River project was beyond the point of no return."

The real issue, he declared, is government integrity. "This is the line that Mr. Fulton and New Democratic Party leader Robert Strachan have already taken."

The NDP, which so nearly unseated Recreation Minister Earle Westwood in Nanaimo in 1960 (51 votes behind) claims to have three rivals seeking the nomination there this time.

Nominating convention is Sept. 6.

Other nominating dates: Victoria Social Credit, Sept. 5 in Club Sirocco; Oak Bay Liberals, Sept. 5 Municipal Hall; Oak Bay Socreds, Sept. 4, Municipal Hall; Esquimalt Socreds, Sept. 5, Colwood Community Hall; Saanich Socreds, Sept. 3, Lake Hill Women's Institute Hall.

Victoria NDP decides the date at a meeting tonight: so do the Conservatives in Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt.

Cyril Shelford, Social Credit member of the legislature for Omineca, said today he will quit the party and run as an independent in the next provincial election unless Premier Bennett makes a firm policy statement on equalization of gasoline prices.

Mr. Shelford, an outspoken MLA for the last 11 years, said he had not made up his mind whether to run again as a Social Credit candidate. He said he wouldn't decide until the premier replied to a telegram sent Friday asking what government policy will be in respect to gas prices.

CASE-LOT HAUL IN RUM RAID

By DESMOND BILL

City police raided two bootleggers in Chinatown Sunday afternoon and made one of their biggest seizures of liquor in recent years.

Two men were later charged with having liquor illegally for sale.

Police today would not release the names of the persons charged or the location of the premises.

It is believed the raids, organized by

Sgt. Brian Ferguson, were made on a taxi company and grocery store. The suspects will appear in court Wednesday.

It took two police constables more than two hours to remove the confiscated liquor from the premises. The raids were carried out by Constables John Adams and D. Wilson.

The booze, much of it in case lots, included more than 100 bottles of wine, gin, rum, whisky and rye along with about 60 dozen beer.

Riders Thrown, Hurts Slight

Tumbled motorbike riders lay like scattered bowling pins after three machines tangled at Western Speedway Sunday. Stunned, but not hurt, unidentified rider lies by posts, (arrow), Jerry Mingano of Port Angeles is sprawled on the track. A third landed out of camera range. The combined scramble and track racing event drew about 20 entries from mainland and Washington in what was called a successful meet.

Ottawa Hears Protests Against 'Open' Fishing

MP David Groos Sunday strongly urged the federal minister of fisheries to make special arrangements to ensure proper escapement of salmon in Juan de Fuca Strait.

Mr. Groos wired Ottawa in reply to an announcement Saturday by the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission that gillnetters and purse seiners would be allowed to fish in Juan de Fuca Strait for an indefinite period.

Commission chairman Tom Reid said the reason for the indefinite period was to enable the commercial fishermen to recoup losses as a result of the recent fishing strike.

Mr. Groos said, "I strongly recommend and appeal for special arrangements to be made immediately to ensure adequate escapement of salmon up spawning rivers."

Conservation officials fear the extended period could wipe out the Cowichan coho run and have a drastic effect on spring salmon in Island waters.

Jack James, president of Amalgamated Conservation Society, which has also sent telegrams to the minister and the director of fisheries in Vancouver, said his association strongly protests the type of measure initiated by the Fisheries Commission.

"Net fishermen are being allowed to fish in Juan de Fuca to make up for their losses in the Georgia and Johnston Strait area when they were on strike," he said.

Prolonged fishing in Juan de Fuca would seriously damage the run of salmon spawning in lower Island rivers, while the fishing in Georgia Straits would not, James said. Mr. Groos felt the step was taken by the Fisheries Commission was "a dangerous and undesirable precedent."

"Escapement must be regulated by curtailing sports fishing in areas near river mouths as well as by halting commercial fishing 100 miles away in the strait."

"Sports fishermen and the tourist industry (because of the prolonged commercial fishing period) are being required to pay for the unfortunate fishing strike last month, for which they were in no way responsible."

Hearing Tonight May Draw Fire

A public hearing tonight in Saanich municipal hall will likely be packed by Blair Avenue-Carnegie Crescent area residents opposing a rezoning application.

Three Oak Bay housewives last week canvassed the area and spoke to 150 residents, informing them of the application to have residential area rezoned for apartment and commercial use.

The three women, Mrs. Katherine Cameron, 3699 Crestview, Mrs. Shirley Dowell, 2720 Upper Terrace, and Mrs. Anne Gray, 3680 Crestview, have been campaigning for some months for adoption of an official community plan for development of Greater Victoria.

Mr. Crocker faces a capital murder charge he has no election or plea. Instead a preliminary hearing will be held on the charge.

If Magistrate William Ostler decides to commit him for trial then Crocker will go before a judge and jury on the murder charge.

Crown prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie indicated this morning that the preliminary hearing of the case will likely be held Sept. 23.

DeMolays Start Early On Car Wash

A marathon car wash got off to a flying start this morning—the first patron had been waiting since 8:30, and the car wash was scheduled to start at noon.

Seven teen-age members of the Victoria chapter, Order of DeMolay, compromised and started at 10:30.

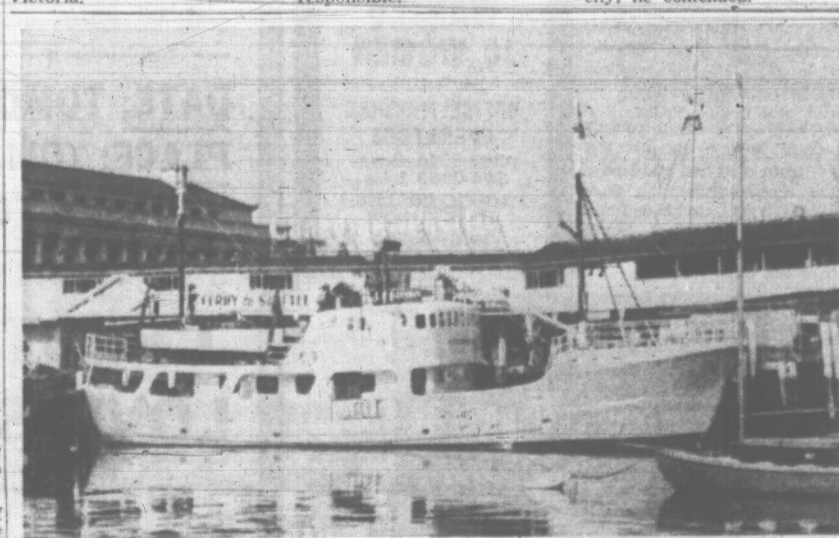

Between then and noon they washed nine cars, and showed no signs of flagging.

The seven are working around the clock, washing cars at the Suburban Motors service station at bargain rates, in order to pay their way to a DeMolay conclave in mid-September.

They say they will wash cars—99 cents for regular size, 75 cents for sports cars—until their strength gives out—and that could be all week.

They want passing motorists to honk as they go by, for moral support.

Participating are Rich Sunderland, Pat Horgan, Brian Tyre, Eric Cable, Doug Gregory, Steve Holmes and John Hill.

Norwegian-built beauty visits from California.

Harbor's Centre Stage Held by 'Trawler'

By MONTE ROBERTS

The inner harbor was busy, busy today, with every float finger occupied and a 100-foot yacht nestled alongside the CPR's Belleville Street dock.

What with the yachts and the fog, it was an intriguing sight.

The big yacht at the CPR dock is a return visitor, but one well worthy of note. Her steel hull was built in Norway, along the exact design of a deep-sea trawler.

Her life-boat like bow gives her the appearance of a whaler. Aft of the wheel-house, she could be a coast-guard cutter or ocean-going navy tug.

Inside, she's wall-to-wall luxury, with no costs barred. Owners are John McNable, big wheel in the Colonial Insurance Co., and Paul Truesdale, who puts subdivisions together and makes them spell m-o-n-e-y in real estate-hungry California.

The name of this eye-catching, sea-defying beauty is Neptune Rex—a proud name for a proud ship.

Most of the other Inner Harbor visitors today were from Washington State, with Seattle, as usual, the largest contributor.

Our old friend Red Jacket, the perennial Swiftsure tender, was moored outboard of the big charter yacht Adventure.

On this trip, the Adventure is providing adventure for 30 Boy Scouts from Pacific Northwest troops, and the boys are having the time of their young lives.

An unusual loading situation was set up at Ogden Point this morning when Victoria gangs began working the U.S. registry freighter Arizona.

The Arizona is a general cargo freighter employed in the Orient-Pacific Coast trade, usually loading on this side of the ocean at Vancouver, Seattle and Portland.

But, for some reason not clearly understood, no longshore gangs were available to load her in Vancouver.

So 705 tons of cargo—flour, resin, steel tubing—were hauled to Victoria via barge, and are being handled today by our longshoremen.

The Arizona, incidentally, is a perfect example of what good handling and maintenance can do for a ship nudging the 20-year mark. A C2 Victory ship built for the U.S. Maritime Commission, she's as clean as the bosun's whistle, and a handsome sight for shore eyes.

Youth Choked Report Shows

Not Guilty Plea Entered By Juvenile

A 14-year-old boy choked to death after an altercation with several older youths near Duncan Aug. 8, it was revealed in Duncan juvenile court this morning.

A pathologist's report showed that Hugh George Nesbitt suffered a brain injury which was enough to knock him unconscious before his death. The report said that when he vomited he choked and died.

The report was introduced as evidence in the case against a 17-year-old Duncan youth charged with manslaughter in the boy's death.

CHANGE ASKED

Magistrate Colin Anderson refused to allow the accused youth to stand trial in magistrate's court. Crown Prosecutor David Williams applied for the case to be transferred from juvenile court because of the seriousness of the charge.

The application was opposed by Angelo Branca of Vancouver, defence counsel. He said the move would help neither the accused or the community.

The accused youth is also charged with illegal possession of liquor and with supplying liquor to a juvenile girl. He pleaded not guilty on all three charges he faces.

The case was remanded until Sept. 5 when a date will be set for trial.

BAZZET ROAD

Nesbitt died after an incident that occurred near his Bazzet Road home as he walked along Maple Bay Road with a 16-year-old friend, Conrad Wohler.

A car containing two youths and two girls passed the boys and then stopped. Both Nesbitt and Wohler ran away when the two youths got out of the car.

Wohler escaped but Nesbitt couldn't get over a fence on to his home property. When Wohler returned to the scene after the car had gone he found Nesbitt dying beside the road.

Red Tape Clogs Inner Harbor

Harbors committee chairman Ald. Arthur Dowell said today red tape is slowing up re-development of the Inner Harbor.

He was commenting on a speech to the Rotary Club by Capital Region Planning Board director A. H. Roberts claiming the city's forefathers had great vision and energy in developing the Inner Harbor.

But today the needed re-development of the Inner Harbor is lagging far behind progress in other parts of the city, he contended.

GROOS WIRES COMMITTEE HEAD ASKING HEARING FOR CRITIC

Victoria MP David Groos today wired Maurice Sauve, chairman of the Commons committee on national defence, suggesting that retired commodore James Plomer be invited to air his views before the committee.

Commodore Plomer has written an article sharply criticizing the navy, for the issue of Maclean's magazine which goes on sale here Tuesday.

After reading an advance copy, Mr. Groos, himself a retired naval officer, said: "This is the type of criticism which should be heard by the committee." Mr. Groos is a member of the committee.

Among other charges, Commodore Plomer says a "self-perpetuating, self-electing" group of admirals is running the Royal Canadian Navy like a private club.

Scheduled Fog Arrives on Time

Plane flights were cancelled, ships were slowed and traffic was snarled this morning as the fog rolled in on schedule.

It's due in again Tuesday morning, weatherman William Mackie said.

First two TCA flights from Patricia Bay airport were cancelled this morning, and the third flight ran about 20 minutes late, but normal service had resumed by noon.

Ferry service to the mainland was only slightly affected, with ferries arriving at Swartz Bay a few minutes late, but leaving on schedule.

Today was the third straight day that early morning fog bedevilled travellers.

WEATHER PATTERN

Morning fog is part of the weather pattern over Victoria at present, says the weatherman.

It will give way to brighter weather in the afternoons, with temperatures in the 68-72 bracket.

Highway traffic in the southern Island area crept along at barely walking pace this morning, and visibility in Juan de Fuca Strait was down to zero at 10 a.m. off Trial Island.

At Albert Head, visibility was about one-eighth of a mile at the same time.

A smoke flare was reported at 10:15, and Pilot Boat 22 and the navy tugboat St. Anthony began a radar search off the Dallas Road waterfront.

It was abandoned after about 10 minutes, when it was reported the flare had been fired from shore for practice.

Hiker Dies On Trail To Waterfall

A hiker from Interior B.C. collapsed and died Saturday during a trip through wild country near desolate Della Falls.

The body of Earl Mellett, 54, of Trail, was still on the trail today as police and Port Alberni coroner Dr. N. H. Jones tried to arrange for a helicopter to airlift it back to civilization.

Mellett was with a woman companion and they were trying to reach the 1,443-foot-high waterfall near Great Central Lake when the man succumbed.

FOUND CABIN

The woman retraced steps over about 12 miles of rugged uninhabited bush to a hunter's cabin on the lake, where she spent Saturday night alone.

Next day she was able to contact a Boy Scout leader who had a party of hikers nearby, and he sent one back to get help.

A member of the Alberni RCMP detachment went in Sunday, 28 miles up Great Central Lake, then through the bush, but his party was unable to carry the body out due to the terrain.

Police said it appeared Mellett died of natural causes.

Tourists Help Traffic Team With Survey

Last week's three-day traffic survey which concentrated interviews on thousands of tourists and ferry passengers was a success, an official said today.

Michael Gittens, principal project engineer for Traffic Research Corporation, returned to Toronto over the weekend with thousands of sheets of statistics.

He will come back to Victoria next week to plan a similar interviewing blitzkrieg aimed at local residents.

Lock Up Your Children—It's a Safety Measure!

By PENNY SAVER

Before any harassed parents take me up on this suggestion as a solution to their lack of peace, let me insist that I am only referring to the times when your children are in the car!

Door handles have a fascination for young children that is liable to turn mother's hair grey if she is not assured that the door cannot open. Unfortunately, children are also entranced by the little knobs that you push down and pull up. Little it matters to them that this means the difference between the door being locked and unlocked.

Item to remove this worry is a lock which fits on the rain gutter of the car. Of course this means the lock is outside the door, and even there it is too high for the small offenders to reach.

Locks fit on easily, with screws for which there is no need to drill holes. Each is $1.49.

With the children safely locked in the car, you can make yourself comfortable in other ways. For instance, during the hot weather, plastic seat covers make it necessary to almost pry yourself from them after you have been driving for a while.

Such is not the case if you own some cool cushions. These have attached seat and back that you place on top of ordinary car seats. Made of metal coil springs covered with intersticed nylon threads, they allow air to circulate and so never become hot and sticky.

Store I was shopping in has them at special price of $2.75—much less than the regular $3.95—so now is the time to stock up. Seats are available in blue, green, black or one with multi-colored pad and red trim.

Make your motor trips more enjoyable with these accessories by calling Penny at 382-3131 to ask where I shopped.

THE BETTER HALF

"Nothing new here either, except that the cost of living and Stanley's blood pressure both just reached an all time high."

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Should You Swim Right After Consuming Food?

There have been varying ideas about how soon after eating it is safe to swim. For years mothers had their children wait for two hours before jumping in. Later it was said that digestion is at its peak two hours after a meal. Even now there is disagreement concerning this subject, mainly because physiologists do not agree as to how long food remains in the stomach. This is understandable because the kind of food makes a difference, as does individual digestion.

This subject is naturally especially interesting to athletes and their coaches. Some experts feel that food should be eaten from three to four hours before a contest. Others suggest that a heavy meal just before strenuous exercise inhibits breathing and heart action. Studies have been conducted to determine what the eating habits of contestants should be in order for them to perform most efficiently. Perhaps we ordinary human beings might use this as a guide.

Studies have been pursued in order to find out what effect different time intervals have on the performance and condition of swimmers. The belief has long been held that there is danger of stomach cramps or other adverse reactions when swimming immediately following a meal. However, the participants of such projects experienced no such cramps or symptoms, not even when swimming one-half hour after eating.

Nevertheless, many authorities feel that it is not a good idea to swim after a heavy meal. The meals consumed in the instances mentioned were light, consisting of toast, cereal, sugar, butter and skim milk.

So, it is probably smart for us to delay our swim after a heavy meal, but we can feel more relaxed about a swim following a light one.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Learn To Swim," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 22 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Average Size Patterns Justifiably Criticized

"Dear Eunice Farmer:

"I honestly think the measurements of women's sizes are incorrect. Am I wrong when I think that 90 per cent of all women have to add to the waist and hip measurement of patterns? Why can't the pattern companies change their measurements for the average size pattern and save most of us a lot of time in alterations?"

Dear Mrs. S.K.: I've heard this story so often before that I would like to start a one-man-for-I should say, one-woman crusade to see what can be done about these so-called average measurements. However, I'll need all our readers help in this project.

Please send me a card or letter telling me what pattern adjustments you have to make. I'll take the results direct to the pattern companies and perhaps we can make them realize that women aren't as slim through the middle as they think. I can't do this without you, so please write to me today in care of your local newspaper.

DEAR ABBY

This Will Pass

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 13 years old and I have a problem. I don't get along with my mother. Everything I do she finds fault with. Did your mother ever say to you, "GO TO BED—YOU'RE SICKENING?" Well, my mother does. I have an older brother, 17, who gets to do anything he wants. My mother always favors him. My father works and is hardly ever home, but when he is, he sides with my mother. I am not lazy. I help around the house, but what do I get? Yelled at, picked on, and criticized. Can you help me?

DISCOURAGED

DEAR DISCOURAGED: If I were asked to select the most trying age (and perhaps the "unluckiest") it would be 13. I'll bet when your brother was 13 he, too, felt unappreciated, picked on and discouraged. At 13 one's emotions are tender, and one's feelings are easily hurt. Toughen up a bit, and try a little harder to please. And before you know it, you'll be 14.

DEAR ABBY: How can otherwise good neighbors lose all consideration for their neighbors by keeping a noisy dog? The idea that children must grow up with a pet to teach them "kindness and consideration" is so much hogwash, since they are learning to be inconsiderate of others by imposing a nuisance on their neighbors. On a stifling summer night one cannot even open his windows because the yelping of dogs is so nerve-shattering. An afternoon nap is out of the question for youngsters or older folks. When dog owners go away for the evening and leave the dog behind, he barks incessantly because he's "lonesome"—but the absent family doesn't realize this, and the neighbors keep quiet because they don't want to cause trouble. And did you ever notice that dog owners put their doghouses as far away from their OWN homes as possible, but usually right under a neighbor's bedroom window? I don't hate dogs, but I think people who can't train their dogs to be quiet should take their dogs and move to the country. CITY DWELLER.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married only two years and recently a problem has come up that has really put an end to our honeymoon. My husband and I agreed that 5:30 would be the best time to eat our dinner. Shortly before dinner time, he disappears and we wind up fighting over cold food. I've hollered myself hoarse, but he's visiting in the home of a neighbor somewhere and can't hear me. How can I break him of this habit? COLD FISH, CHICKEN AND ROAST.

For Bride-Elect

September bride-elect Miss Marlene Cummins was honored recently at a shower in the Roy Road home of Mrs. W. Lindenback. Co-hostess was Mrs. D. Rand. A corsage of red roses was presented to Miss Cummins, pink and white carnations to her mother, Mrs. E. Cummins, and mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. J. K. Gordon. The bride-elect's grandmother, Mrs. B. Rogers, received pink carnations. Refreshment table was decorated with gladioli and a cake in the form of a bride doll. Guests were Mrs. W. Lightfoot, Mrs. C. Bruce, Mrs. E. Salmon, Mrs. A. Butt, Mrs. J. Lockhart, Mrs. E. Nixon, Mrs. G. Soares, Mrs. G. Boulton, Mrs. B. Christopherson, Mrs. R. Cummins, Mrs. D. Frazer and the Misses Evangeline Martin, Barbara Cummins, Sylvia Gordon, Karen MacNutt, Carol Small, Pat Salter, Margaret Bruce, Carol Bruce, Donna Fear and Jeanie Lindenback.

Aunt Attends

Mrs. H. Sumner came from Togo, Sask., to attend the wedding recently of her niece Miss Marilyn May and Mr. Gordon McGaw. Others who came to Victoria for the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. P. McGaw of Edmonton; Mr. and Mrs. F.

Mann of Roblin, Man.; Mr. and Mrs. R. Franklin of Yorkton, Sask.; Mr. and Mrs. F. Westcott of Salt Spring, and Mr. and Mrs. L. Hurley of Vancouver.

Marilyn May Wed at St. Mark's

Canon Robert Willis officiated at the recent evening ceremony in St. Mark's Anglican Church which united in marriage Marilyn May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Robert May, 1856 Neil Street, and Gordon Lawrence McGaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McGaw, 564 Alpha Street.

White gladioli decorated the church and pews were marked with pink roses and white satin ribbon.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of white satin overlaid with net and lace on skirt and white lace on bodice. Sleeves ended in lily points. An elbow-length veil of net trimmed with white lace pouffed from her headpiece. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses and wore a pearl and diamond necklace, gift of the groom.

Mrs. Patrick McGaw, matron of honor, was gowned in a ballerina-length dress of pale yellow organza over satin while the bridesmaid, Miss Patricia Clark, chose a similar gown in pink. Both had feather headpieces and carried colonial bouquets of carnations.

Lorne Salmond was best man. Ushers were David Caird, Patrick McGaw, the groom's brother, and Don McIntosh. Red carnations and a wedding cake decorated the bride's table at the reception held in the Bollermakers' Hall. Charles Hern proposed the toast.

Beige suit with brown accessories and corsage of yellow roses was chosen by the bride as her going away outfit.

After a honeymoon spent in the interior of the province the couple are making their home at 101 Simms Avenue.

satin wedding dress, shown as part of Yves St. Laurent collection. Worn with an ermine toque. Centre, a long Bertha collar falling in a point to the knees and edged in organza ruffles is the eye-catching feature of this lipstick red chiffon afternoon gown from the collection of Simonette and Fabiani. A fabulous diamond flower, from Cartier, breaks the barren look of the top.

closed with four buttons and is accompanied by a velvet grey-taupe bowler hat. At right, a naval style blouse with a wide decollete is a feature of this purplish-red quilted suit shown by Guy de Roche. The cuffs and collar are trimmed with mink. (AP Wire-photos.)

Paris Gives Wide Choice in Styles

PARIS (AP)—A something for everyone look is shown in photographs of fall and winter fashion models released today by the top Paris houses.

The focus is on hemlines. Even though one attempt by Jacques Heim to launch a longer line—by three to four inches—proved abortive, it may be a straw in the wind for next year.

There were other exceptions to the status quo hemline, which covers the kneecap.

Courrages often left the knees uncovered. Ricci and Givenchy each launched longer coats over shorter dresses. For evening, Dior showed hemline draping. Velvet had a half-way-around ruffle, and Cardin made a deep ruffle.

A secondary focus was on bosoms. They were almost bare. Chez Dior, so anyone with few inhibitions could indulge to the limit.

There was big news in sleeves, which were often long and tight replacing the sleeveless look. But the chasuble-bolero at Lanvin's was sleeveless.

If the designers' approach was often individualistic, reviewers agreed on one point: the antifreeze campaign was "in." All Paris houses equipped madame, mademoiselle and milady to face the iciest blasts.

Hoods, stoles, cagoules and scarves heavily muffle the wearer. Collars climb to a new high, to the nose or the eyes whether in fabric or fur.

All the houses had roomy winter coats spelling comfort. Their squared shoulders were sometimes padded. Certain models were inspired by the greatcoats worn by French officers in the First World War.

The use of fur was the biggest in years. For the younger set, Revillon revived bleached muskrat, pony and white Kal-gan sheep.

For formal and gala evenings, there are several looks that will make the 1963 fashion annals. One is the Edwardian "My Fair Lady" look. Balenciaga, Givenchy and Balmain endorsed it for evening.

Another look is the nostalgic flashback to Hollywood's golden age. At Cardin's, Charlie Chaplin waddles out in a skinny suit, even Irene Castle is evoked with ostrich plumes and front-trimmed floating chiffon.

Mrs. Edwin Tomlin entertained at the coffee hour on Sunday at her Henderson Road home for her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Willoughby and their son Allan, who had been visiting her from Chicago. The party was also planned for Mrs. Tomlin's grandsons and a granddaughter, Mrs. Bob Orcutt. The Willoughbys left today for their Illinois home.

Hear Vows

Here Saturday to attend the wedding of Miss Valerie Diane Gould and Mr. Leo Gervais were Mr. and Mrs. R. Potter, Mrs. R. Bernard and Miss Marilyn Bates of Vancouver; Mrs. Tom Dixon, Nanaimo; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Oliver, White Rock; Mrs. N. Scott, Edmonton, and Mr. Alex Martin, Bralorne, B.C.

Civil Ceremony

Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth O. Wright, 3050 Devon Road, announce the marriage of their daughter, Nora Louise to Mr. Raymond C. Osborne, son of Dr. and Mrs. Clark Osborne of Vancouver. Following the civil ceremony in the Parliament Buildings with Mr. and Mrs. Leeson MacKenzie as attendants, a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. The newlyweds left on a honeymoon to Portland, Ore., and San Francisco. On return they will make their home at 1350 Laurier Avenue, Vancouver. The bride will enter her final year in nursing at the University of British Columbia and the groom will lecture in the department of philosophy.

Wedding Guests

From the mainland came many guests to attend the recent wedding of Miss Margaret Rose Koller and Mr. Jack Krahn. Included were the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Krahn, Mr. R. Krahn, Mr. and Mrs. H. Krahn, Mr. and Mrs. E. Boake, and Mr. and Mrs. G. O'Reilly and family, all of Chilliwack; Mrs. Ethel Roed, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. Earle M. Koller of Sioux Lookout, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. J. Bachmyer of Penticton; Mr. Art Enns, Mrs. Hardy Enns and Mr. and Mrs. R. Reimer.

Highway Crash

A car was demolished and its driver severely injured when two automobiles driven by youths tumbled over a 25-foot bank after a rear-end collision at 2:10 Sunday morning.

The other youth, Douglas Elmer Pearsall, 17, of 12515 Hastings, was reported to be in fairly good condition with head injuries and was taken to the hospital, treated for minor injuries and released.

They were Douglas Bond and his wife Sharon of 37 Gorge

Colwood RCMP said all remained in the car after it struck the rear end of Pearl's parked pickup truck the

Pearsall was standing near his truck checking a rear tire when the Ford car approached from the south.

The hospital said Ford suffered injury to his liver.

LIGHTS ON

Police said Pearsall stopped his northbound truck on the gravel shoulder while he checked the tire. He left the lights on.

Ford's car went 80 feet along the shoulder before hitting the truck.

Police said damage to the pickup was comparatively light, about $300.

Leaders Agree on Unity In Overall Sewer Plans

Three municipal leaders agreed on unified sewerage planning even if other features of local government never are integrated.

Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurttele, Oak Bay Reeve George Murdoch and Saanich Councillor Hugh Curtis each spoke in favor of the idea.

It was proposed by a committee of engineers, who said an overall survey would cost $74,000.

"Something, no doubt, will have to be done. It is certainly time this was done," Reeve Wurttele said about the survey.

He said the city's northwest sewer system used jointly by Saanich and Esquimalt must be getting near to overloaded. It is about 39 years old.

"The problem is pollution," said Oak Bay Reeve Murdoch. "We will probably need a sewage disposal plant to treat it before it goes into the sea."

Oak Bay would be willing to share in the cost of a survey, he indicated. "We've always taken the position that if anything is of benefit to the whole area, we are willing to put up our share of the cost."

He said it would not matter whether there were an integrated sewer board or simply cost-sharing—the cost is the same, and with intermunicipal sharing, the cost is proportionate to the population.

Saanich works chairman Coun. Curtis indicated support of the survey, but felt councils ought to examine the recommendation before discussing it.

The city favors an overall sewer plan, but some officials point out there might be reluctance to spend money on a survey until the means of development is decided—that is, amalgamation or integration.

They were commenting on an engineer's advisory committee recommendation for a $74,000 independent survey of Greater Victoria sewer needs.

Busy Visit Planned for Lord Mayor

The Lord Mayor of London, Ald. Sir Ralph Perring, will plant a tree in the grounds of Government House Saturday at 9:45 a.m.

On the last lap of his Canadian goodwill tour, the Lord Mayor will stay at Government House and will be received by Premier Bennett at the Legislative Buildings Friday at 10 a.m.

Later, after being received by Mayor R. B. Wilson at the City Hall, he will address a Canadian Club luncheon at the Empress Hotel at noon.

Friday evening he will dine with Lieutenant Governor George Pearkes at Government House.

On Saturday morning he is to embark on a cruise of the Gulf Islands.

The Lord Mayor and his party, with Mr. and Mrs. Pearkes, will attend services in Christ Church Cathedral Sunday and at 3:15 p.m. will leave for Patricia Bay Airport and Vancouver on the return journey home.

City Racer 'Disorderly' At Drive-In

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Race driver Ed Kostenuk of Victoria was fined $1 and costs of $15 Saturday after being convicted of disorderly conduct.

The 34-year-old Kostenuk was arrested at a drive-in restaurant Friday night by motorcycle patrolman John Wise, who said the race driver made insulting and belittling remarks to him.

The police also charged Kostenuk with taunting a police officer, but the judge withheld judgment on that charge.

Kostenuk denied Wise's charges, but told the judge he did try to get the policeman to turn off his motorcycle engine so he could listen to a radio in his car.

Kostenuk, the Canadian mid-gate racing champion in 1951 and 1952, passed his rookie test at the Indianapolis motor speedway in 1962, but was prevented from trying to qualify for the 500-mile race when his eye was injured by a bird during a practice lap. He failed to qualify for this year's 500.

'Vodka and Idiocy'

NEW YORK (AP) — Movie television director Sidney Lumet, newly divorced from heiress Gloria Vanderbilt Lumet, was taken to a hospital Sunday night suffering from what police called an overdose of pills. Lumet denied it. "All it was was seven vodkas, a Milton tranquilizer and idiocy," he said.

Injured Boy Dies

Day Count Of Anglers Nets 12,500

Salmon anglers were having one of their busiest weekends on the date selected by the Department of Fisheries for the annual, one-day survey of sports-fishing activity in lower B.C. waters.

More than 13,000 sports fishermen were on Juan de Fuca and Georgia straits and adjacent waters on Sunday, Aug. 4. In most cages fishing was good and more than 10,000 salmon and grilse, plus 1,000 food fish (mainly ling cod) and 1,500 dogfish were caught.

Those were the figures released Thursday as W. R. Hourston, Pacific Area fisheries director, reported on the intensive, one-day survey.

BOAT COUNT

Anglers made an estimated 5,235 boat trips on the survey date as boat counts were made by 40 fisheries officers, who used patrol boats, motor vehicles and chartered aircraft.

The estimated salmon and grilse count was made up of 1,450 springs, 830 jack springs, 3,485 coho, 1,753 grilse and 2,380 pinks (humpbacks). Most of the pink salmon were taken in the Victoria, Vancouver-Howe Sound, Pender Harbor and Campbell River areas.

BEST AREA

Best fishing was reported in the Campbell River section, where boats averaged 3.6 fish and less than 10 per cent failed to make a catch.

Officers making the survey also distributed 850 questionnaires to fishermen, who were asked to record information on the day's fishing along with results of the 1963 season.

Almost half of the questionnaires have been returned and it is expected the final response will be above 75 per cent.

Since the survey was started in 1957, information secured is combined with other data to assess the changing trends in recreational fishing.

DEFENCE EXPERT BACKS ATOMIC TEST BAN PACT

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Herbert F. York testified today the limited nuclear test-ban treaty offers "a first small step" toward a solution of what he termed the dilemma of increasing military power and decreasing national security.

York, now chancellor of the University of California at San Diego, was director of research and engineering for the defence department during Eisenhower's terms.

Two Miners Await Lift-Out As Rescue Shaft Completed

Will Come Up One at a Time

HAZLETON, Pa. (UPI) — Rescuers today completed enlargement of the escape hole for two 'plucky' miners trapped 308 feet underground for two weeks and began final operations to remove them in a metal capsule.

Drillers reamed out the plug at the bottom of the hole at 3:18 p.m. EDT (12:18 P.D.T.). The next job was to withdraw equipment from the hole, mount the capsule and give it a few test runs.

Authorities hoped to have David Fellin, 38, and Henry Thorne, 28, out of the 308-foot deep prison by this evening. The last 15 feet had to be reamed out with extreme care, cutting only four feet an hour.

The final operation consisted of enlarging the original 12-inch hole, by which the miners were located last week, to 17½ inches. Drilling equipment will be withdrawn, an escape capsule lowered into the hole, the men drawn up one at a time.

Fellin reported by telephone that all was well in the mine and very little dust was coming through from the drilling operation. The lower part of the hole had been temporarily filled with cement to prevent debris from falling on the trapped men.

"We're sneaking up on you, so if you see any rock falls or cracking, or anything, you holler," Gordon Smith, deputy state secretary of mines, told the men. "And don't look up when the hole goes through."

Fellin assured him, "We'll holler" if anything goes wrong.

Viet Nam Faces U.S. Aid Cut

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI) — The United States warned today that it will make sharp cuts in its multi-million-dollar aid to South Viet Nam if President Ngo Dinh Diem's government continues its present harsh policies against opposition forces and Buddhists.

The warning was contained in a Voice of America broadcast which reached this tense city where troops still occupy key points in strength.

It came as government troops and police appeared to have smashed student resistance to the regime.

Government forces shot and killed one girl and carted hundreds of other student demonstrators off to jail in a crackdown Sunday. Some estimates placed the number of students jailed at 2,000.

The government radio broadcast an order today reducing the curfew from 11 p.m. to 5 a.m. to midnight to 5 a.m. At the same time, Ton That Dinh, military governor of Saigon, issued an order authorizing soldiers to open fire on any gathering, demonstration or group of "troublemakers" who violate the state of martial law which has been in effect since last Wednesday.

There were no new student demonstrations today, but informed sources said a student leader smuggled identical notes Sunday night to newly-arrived U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and key Vietnamese generals which said, "We now hand fight against Diem over to you."

The students apparently hoped that U.S. officials and possibly dissatisfied elements in the army would take up their fight for them.

Lodge met this morning with acting Vietnamese Foreign Minister Truong Cong Chu, and shortly afterwards presented his credentials to Diem at the Gia Long presidential palace. He gave Diem a personal message from President Kennedy.

FREIGHTERS COLLIDE IN LOS ANGELES FOG

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two heavily-loaded U.S. freighters collided in dense fog in Los Angeles harbor today and were badly damaged. No injuries were reported.

The 4,608-ton Matson Line freighter Sierra of San Francisco suffered a five-foot rip in her starboard side at the waterline. She was listing sharply but kept from sinking by a load of lumber. She was towed to shore.

The 4,300-ton Calmar Lines Liberty ship Massmar of Baltimore, listing slightly, dropped anchor near the site of the collision.

The Sierra, with a cargo of B.C. lumber, was inbound from San Francisco for Los Angeles, and the Massmar was outbound for San Francisco. The Sierra, a regular visitor, began loading at various B.C. ports when she docked at Victoria July 31.

Prison Boosts Medical Staff

AGASSIZ, B.C. (CP) — The medical staff at Mountain Prison was increased by six persons today to cope with the continuing fast by Sons of Freedom Doukhobor prisoners.

Penitentiaries Commissioner Allen J. MacLeod said the Canadian Army was asked to send a doctor, nurse and four orderlies.

A doctor, nurse and three orderlies have been attending the prisoners so far during the 34-day hunger strike.

Five Freedomites have been taken to hospital and one has died since the strike began. Sect members inside and outside the special prison have refused to give up the protest, and Mr. MacLeod said today "how far they'll go I don't know."

Meanwhile, a group calling itself the human rights committee made an attempt to resolve the situation in alliance with a few of the more than 500 Freedomites who camped here last Tuesday on arrival from Vancouver.

The delegation was allowed into the prison Sunday afternoon to read portions of a telegram it said came from Stefan Sorokin, the Sons' spiritual leader now living in Uruguay. The telegram urged the more-than-100 fasting Freedomite prisoners to resume eating.

The prisoners, serving terms for terrorism, announced that they would continue the fast unless Sorokin was brought to them. The camping-Freedomites said they would maintain their hunger strike in sympathy with their jailed brethren.

The fast is believed to have taken the life of Paul Podmorow, 22, a sect member jailed for arson who died Friday in nearby Chilliwack Hospital. G. S. Merjitt, assistant warden, said Podmorow apparently died from malnutrition.

The Freedomites held a martyr's funeral service for Podmorow today.

Thousands Lose Vote Party Chiefs Charge

By FRANK RUTTER

The first major controversy of the Sept. 30 election boiled today around charges that thousands of eligible British Columbians will not have a vote.

The three opposition party leaders attacked Premier Bennett for "arrogance" and claimed his snap election, included deliberate disregard of the fact that short notice would virtually disenfranchise many citizens.

It was disclosed that there has not been a full-scale revision of the provincial voters' list since Social Credit came to power in 1952.

Chief electoral officer Fred Hurley said that a number of constituencies have been revised by door-to-door canvassing over the years, but a cabinet order would be required to launch a province-wide enumeration.

Voting lists close on Saturday and there will be no door-to-door canvass in any riding.

All three opposition leaders deplored the short-notice election.

LABOR EFFORT

And the B.C. Federation of Labor, which supports the New Democratic Party, declared it will print 50,000 registration cards in an attempt to sign up voters itself.

Electoral officials checked with legal advisers and found there is nothing they can do to stop it.

PERMANENT LIST

A permanent voters' list is maintained for the whole province and it is kept up-to-date in three ways:

Once a month the vital statistics branch supplies a list of deaths and the names are deleted;

After each election people who don't vote are sent a card which they must complete to remain on the list;

The public itself is expected to notify local registrars of any changes.

In some ridings there has been a change in the number of voters.

Young Steelhead Die After Area Sprayed

PORTLAND (AP)—The Oregon Game Commission says nearly the entire steelhead fingerling population of 70,000 in one of its rearing areas has been killed by a chemical pesticide.

No more than 1,000 fingerlings were left, state game director Phil Schneider said Saturday, and they are doomed.

Schneider said a highly toxic pesticide, probably dieldrin, is blamed by biologists for the kill in the Whistler's Bend experimental rearing area on the North Umpqua River of southwestern Oregon. The Bend no longer will be used for rearing steelhead.

Schneider said that four to seven years ago, a grasshopper control program was conducted on that watershed and this may have been one source of the pesticide in the water. He also said that in the last four years, adjacent pasture lands were sprayed and that a year ago, still another area was sprayed with aldrin, which breaks down into dieldrin.

He said it is believed the pesticide has been carried into the stream by rains and water runoff.

Millions Down Drain As 'Bobcat' a Flop

By DAVE MCINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — After millions of dollars, thousands of man-hours and nearly 10 years development, the army's projected Bobcat armored personnel carrier may be thrown on the junk heap.

Former defence minister Harkness announced in February, 1961, that 500 amphibious Bobcats would be produced for the Canadian infantry brigade in Europe.

But the 20 prototypes have not yet been received by the army for user trials. They were to have come off the assembly line in February.

Informants say the machine is having trouble learning to swim and that it now is about twice as expensive as similar vehicles in other NATO countries.

Under study is the possibility of procuring the American M-113 carrier with Canadian industrial modifications.

try perhaps making components for it which could be sold in other NATO countries.

There is some urgency about the carrier problem in the army because, as Lt.-Gen. Geoffrey Walsh, chief of the general staff, said July 11, NATO is pressing for mechanization of the infantry brigade in Europe.

The army initiated the Bobcat in January, 1954, before any other NATO country had designed such an armored personnel carrier.

However, other NATO countries have since passed Canada in carrier development and Canada now ranks about fifth in this field.

Up to the time of Mr. Harkness' announcement, about $5,600,000 had been spent on development of the Bobcat.

Production of the 20 prototypes and tooling were estimated to cost an additional $3,500,000.

CRUSTY U.K. MAGAZINE SNIFFS AT HERO

Robin Hood Was Just a Hood

LONDON (AP) — A highly respected British magazine today denounced Robin Hood as a hoodlum and said that if he were alive today he would be jailed.

The magazine, The Justice of the Peace and Local Government Review, said:

"Having regard to the fact that the exploits of this legendary hero were chiefly concerned with robbing the rich, under the specious motive of giving to the poor—after deduction of a reasonable commission for services rendered—a function which, in modern times, has been taken over by the welfare state—it is a question of some doubt whether a Robin Hood festival is not contrary to public policy."

A Robin Hood Festival was started in Nottingham—Robin Hood's stamping ground—last June.

The magazine also took a swipe at the Sheriff of Nottingham and said he cut a poor figure in history.

A good deal o' th' battle o' th' polls is goin' t' take place down on Gordon Street.

If folks felt th' same int'rest in saving a few hundred million people that they show in rescuin' two coal miners, we might hev a better chance at disarmament.

Work Rule Talks Derailed

By JACK LEFLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Settlement efforts in the strike-threatening railway work rules dispute were derailed again last week.

The railways and the five on-train unions agreed the previous week to binding arbitration at the urging of U.S. Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz. But efforts to get the arbitration going crumbled because of failure to agree on procedure.

After meeting with management, labor and members of Congress, Wirtz announced it was "impossible to reconcile these differences."

This threw the long-standing controversy into the lap of Congress, which has been asked by President Kennedy, if all other measures fail, to enact legislation turning the dispute over to the U.S. Interstate Commerce Commission for settlement.

An ICC decision would be binding for two years unless superseded by a negotiated agreement.

The big question was whether Congress could act fast enough to head off a strike on Aug. 29. That is the date the railways are scheduled to put into effect work rules changes which in time would eliminate the jobs of 40,000 firemen and eventually 65,000 workers. The unions have said they would strike the moment the changes became effective.

MAY BE TOO LATE

It was doubtful that a bill could be pushed through the Senate before sometime this week. There would be time-consuming consideration in the House.

Even if a strike is averted, the protracted threat of a shutdown has hurt the railroads. An industry publication, Railway Age, said a survey of shippers showed many have diverted significant freight volume to highway, waterway and air carriers.

The big news out of the automobile industry was that General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors will make front seat belts standard equipment after Jan. 1. Laws requiring seat belts will become effective in several states on that date. Rear seat belts will be offered as optional equipment.

Production of cars was estimated 19,500 last week as the automakers slowly moved into output of 1964 models.

The industry looked back with satisfaction on the 1963 model year, in which more than 7,000,000 cars were produced.

STEEL HALTS SLIDE

Nearing a bottom on its downswing, steel production, which about held its own a week ago, U.S. mills turned out 1,742,000 tons, only 6,000 tons under the previous week.

Americans' personal income rose to a record annual rate of $464,300,000,000 in July on gains posted in the construction, trade and service industries. The total was $1,700,000,000 higher than in June and $21,000,000,000 above July 1962.

Sales of durable goods by manufacturers rose two per cent in July, to eight per cent above July 1962.

Drill Crew Approaching Arctic Site

CALGARY (CP) — Equipment to drill the Arctic island 10,000-foot test well of Dominion Explorers Group is approaching its destination, United Canso Oil and Gas Ltd. announced Friday. United Canso is project operator.

The projected well is located on Bathurst Island.

Thora Dan, the expedition's supply ship, has been joined at Resolute Bay by a government ice breaker and is on the final leg of its voyage to Bathurst Island.

The ship carries 3,000 tons of cargo including a drilling rig owned by Commonwealth Drilling Co. Ltd. of Calgary, a winterized camp, vehicles, earth-moving equipment, and more than 5,000 drums of fuels and lubricants.

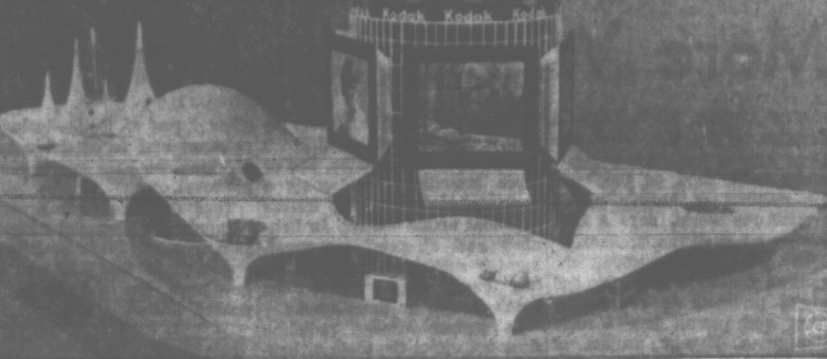

Lashed on deck are two landing craft for transferring the cargo to the beach at Bathurst Island.

Rig and equipment will be moved 25 miles overland to the drilling site.

Husky Oil Orders Pipe for Asphalt

CALGARY (CP) — Pipe has been ordered for the $6,000,000 project of Husky Oil Canada Ltd. to supply eastern Canadian markets with high-quality asphaltic crude oil from the Lloydminster area, the company announced Friday.

Husky has placed orders for 75 miles of steel pipe for use in its eastern Alberta pipeline from Hardisty to Lloydminster. This pipeline is part of the $6,000,000 project.

PAVILION depicted by model above will be erected at 1964 world's fair in New York. It will feature display

BUSINESS VIEWS

Traders See BCE Wrap-Up In Bennett Election Call

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

There was a sharp market reaction to the implications for B.C. Power Corp. of Premier Bennett's election call Thursday afternoon.

Friday on the Toronto Stock Exchange B.C. Power was the top industrial list trader with volume of 12,123 shares and the price closing five-fifths higher at 24 1/2.

The election call obviously signalled to speculators that a settlement of the price for the B.C. Electric had either been reached between the government and B.C. Power or was very near. It must also have appeared that the price would at least be somewhat higher than the $22 million extra suggested by Chief Justice Lett.

Most local investment men believe that agreement in principle has been reached between the two parties and speculation is that the amount involved will be over $25 million above the original price paid.

WEEK ON MARKETS

High Hopes, Bewilderment

By GREG MACDONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It was a week of bewilderment and high hopes on Canadian stock markets.

The proposed United States 15-per-cent equalization tax on American purchases of foreign securities promoted a unique development on the Toronto Stock Exchange Thursday which has lent an air of wistful optimism to Bay Street.

The Exchange opened up a second operation called the Foreign market to facilitate trading of already-issued Canadian securities between Americans. The proposed tax does not apply if both buyer and seller are American.

The move made the Toronto Exchange the world's first with two separate markets, both with the same listed issues. The Vancouver Stock Exchange followed suit shortly after.

The Montreal and Canadian Stock Exchanges said in a joint statement Wednesday they would not establish a second market because of the "uncertainty surrounding the proposed tax at this time." The tax, if approved, is retroactive to Aug. 16.

Prices on the new markets can move up or down separately from their counterparts on the main board but upward movements are confined to 15 per cent above the Canadian price—the extent of the equalization tax if an American bought on a Canadian market.

Trading was quiet on the first two days of operation at Toronto—only 28 issues changed hands on a total volume of 12,900 shares. However, one feature was encouraging—75 per cent of the American orders were bids, indicating that Americans are not ditching their Canadian holdings.

Bay Street is visibly worried and members have their fingers crossed, hoping the Foreign Market is the right solution. If it fails, then American buying, estimated by some to be as high as 40 per cent of total transactions in Toronto, will be drastically cut.

But there is a small faction of brokerage houses that look at the new market with a jaundiced eye.

They argue that if the new market is successful it will give those who favor the equalization tax all the ammunition they need to get it through the U.S. Congress.

The feeling among this group is that the pro-tax people can simply point to the success of the Toronto Foreign Market and argue that there is no need for exemptions or modifications.

Elsewhere on the markets, trading was almost a duplication of the previous week's inactivity and limited movements—a sharp contrast to the buoyant trading on the New York Exchange.

Average daily volume at Toronto during the week dipped under the 2,000,000 mark for the first time in many months and measured the reluctance of investors to make any commitments.

There were a few features on the industrial board. B.C. Power continued to hold interest as the spent in development of ore; and loan and interest payments to Mitsui and Co. of $425,691 (U.S.) as of Aug. 1.

Mr. MacDonald commented on the high ratio of current assets ($491,496) to current liabilities ($1,695,316) as of April 30 balance sheet by saying that "normally all mining companies entering production have large short-term liability" and "certainly this is preferable to a high ratio of shares issued."

If it had been possible to sell the shares necessary to finance the operation, at the market price prevailing when the Sunro option was taken up, shareholder equity would have been only 17 per cent of what it is now.

Mr. MacDonald also said Cowichan now had 200,000 tons of ore drilled and broken and by the end of the year would have at least 1,000,000 tons prepared for drilling. The company had demonstrated substantial earning ability and had ore reserves which assured complete retirement of debt and substantial profit.

It was his considered opinion, he said, that "we can expect a steady increase of ore reserves over that milled and at a much accelerated rate upon launching our exploration program after the first of the year."

Ontario Loan and Debenture also went to a high of $53.62 1/2 following news that second offer for the company had been made. British International Finance (Canada) Ltd. offered to purchase its shares for $50 last month. Midland Securities, on behalf of an investment syndicate, offered $32.50 a share this week. BIF has indicated it will make a further and higher bid.

Senior mines were mixed. Falconbridge slumped after reporting a sharp drop in earnings for the first six months of the year. Dickinson was best among golds, moving on news of an important new ore find.

There was little interest in the speculative end of the market. Volume at Toronto was 9,696,637 shares compared with 9,725,205 shares the previous week. Dollar value was $25,757,474 compared with $24,628,280.

On index at Toronto, industrials gained 2.96 to 617.96, golds 5.56, base metals .51 to 205.42. Western Oils declined .90 to 113.63.

Volume at Montreal totalled 475,910 industrial shares compared with 584,412 a week ago and 2,681,583 mining shares compared with 2,144,906.

On index at Montreal, industrials gained 0.4 to 121.5 and banks 1.7 to 122.9. Utilities were off 0.2 to 117.8, composite 0.1 to 120.7 and papers 0.4 to 105.2

New Manager Taking Over At Imperial

William H. Armstrong takes over as manager of the main branch, Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce next week.

He succeeds I. C. (Ed) Dinning, who is retiring under the bank's pension plan.

An Ottawa man, Mr. Armstrong—joined the bank—23 years ago and has been with it ever since except for six years' war service.

For the past three years he has been the bank's resident representative in Chicago. Before then, he was manager of the main branch at Windsor, Ont.

His first managerial post was at the Golden Mile branch in Scarborough, Ont. He is married and has a teenage son and daughter.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Rye prices showed an easier tone while other prices moved narrowly in moderate trade near the close today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

The rye market reflected an easier tone on the Chicago rye market. Trade reports indicated buying for American interests and a small lot of Canadian rye was reported sold to Japan.

Oats and barley prices moved narrowly with some shipping demand reported for oats.

ELECTION NOTEBOOK

Tory Launches Candidate Hunt in City

By FRANK BUTLER

First party leader to swing punches in Victoria will be Davie Fulton of the Conservatives, who arrives Tuesday.

His main mission—to recruit six candidates for the local ridings.

"He wants to get to Victoria early because he places a very high priority on it," said aide John DeWolfe.

No hint about who's on the short-list to run here, but it's reported the leader has an appointment with one very prominent Victorian.

Mr. Fulton will also be in Victoria for a major rally during the last week of the campaign. Date and location unannounced as yet.

The Secords are waiting for their manifesto and their candidates before plunging neck-deep in a public election campaign.

Social Credit League President Archie Browne said today the story on plans, platform and candidates will be unveiled by next week.

The "manifesto" now being "edited" may be ready Friday. It's a manifesto, not a platform, says Mr. Browne, because it isn't a rehash of 11 years of Social Credit, it's a complete blueprint for the future.

It will include new policy on secondary highways, medicare and power.

All 32 Secord candidates will be nominated by Sept. 9.

***

They rushed home from an Hawaiian honeymoon to join the election battle.

Barbara dined with her mother-in-law Saturday while Ray attended an organizational meeting.

Mr. Perrault said the Sept. 30 vote date was "shameful" and purely a political move.

He said Premier Bennett's claim he wants a mandate for his two-river power policy was "patent nonsense."

"Mr. Bennett's own minister Ray Williston, stated in the house this year the Peace River project was beyond the point of no return."

This is the line that Mr. Fulton and New Democratic Party leader Robert Strachan have already taken.

***

The NDP—which so nearly unseated Recreation Minister Earle Westwood in Nanaimo in 1960 (51 votes behind)—claims to have three rivals seeking the nomination there this time.

Nominating convention is Sept. 6.

Other nominating dates: Victoria Social Credit, Sept. 5 in Club Sirocco; Oak Bay Liberals, Sept. 5 Municipal Hall; Oak Bay Secords, Sept. 4, Municipal Hall; Esquimalt Secords, Sept. 5, Colwood Community Hall; Saanich Secords, Sept. 3, Lake Hill Women's Institute Hall.

Victoria NDP decides the date at a meeting tonight; so do the Conservatives in Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt.

Cyril Sheiford, Social Credit member of the legislature for Omineca, said today he will quit the party and run as an independent in the next provincial election unless Premier Bennett makes a firm policy statement on equalization of gas prices.

Mr. Sheiford, an outspoken MLA for the last 11 years, said he had not made up his mind whether to run again as a Social Credit candidate.

He said he wouldn't decide until the premier replied to a telegram sent Friday asking what government policy will be in respect to gas prices.

***

South Van Isle Lions Club will hold a pancake breakfast at Mattick's Farm, Cordova Bay, Sunday from 8:30 a.m. to noon.

"For 50 cents you can eat all you want," a club spokesman said. "Children of 12 and under will be charged only 25 cents."

***

Action will be taken against a Victoria store that the Chamber of Commerce charges broke a U.S. customs rule.

Secretary-manager John Coppinger said Chamber officers, himself and the Better Business Bureau will confer on what course to take.

This likely would be a reprimand to the storekeeper to conduct better business practices, he felt.

But two other courses are open: the U.S. customs department may step in, and city council may be asked to review the store's business licence.

Mr. Coppinger said there is positive proof that the store falsely labelled merchandise for shipment to the U.S. "unsolicited gift," when it was not, and placed a non-tariff value of $10 on it when the item was worth more.

He added the store is "one of the regular operators," not one of Victoria's new duty-free shops.

***

A meeting of the Columbian Squires will be held at St. Andrews Church at 7:15 tonight.

***

A public hearing tonight in Saanich municipal hall will likely be packed by Blair Avenue-Carnegie Crescent area residents opposing a rezoning application.

Three Oak Bay housewives last week canvassed the area and spoke to 150 residents, informing them of the application to have residential area rezoned for apartment and commercial use.

The three women, Mrs. Katherine Cameron, 3699 Crestview, Mrs. Shirley Dowell, 2720 Upper Terrace, and Mrs. Anne Gray, 3680 Crestview, have been campaigning for some months for adoption of an official community plan for development of Greater Victoria.

***

Crown prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie indicated this morning that the preliminary hearing of the case will likely be held Sept. 23.

CASE-LOT HAUL IN RUM RAID

By DESMOND BILL

City police raided two bootleggers in Chinatown Sunday afternoon and made one of their biggest seizures of liquor in recent years.

Two men were later charged with having liquor illegally for sale.

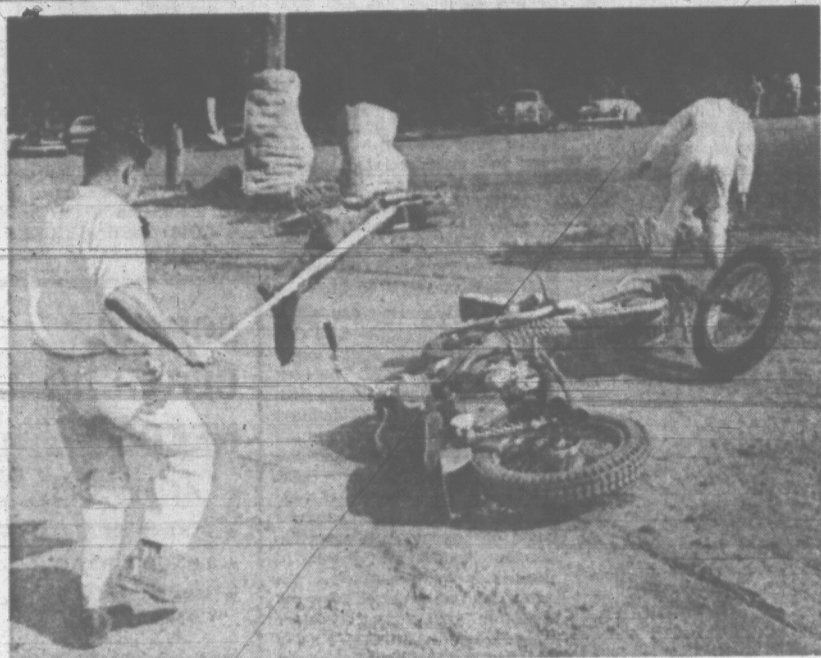

Police today would not release the names of the persons charged or the location of the premises.

It is believed the raids, organized by

Sgt. Brian Ferguson, were made on a taxi company and grocery store. The suspects will appear in court Wednesday.

It took two police constables more than two hours to remove the confiscated liquor from the premises. The raids were carried out by Constables John Adams and D. Wilson.

The booze, much of it in case lots, included more than 100 bottles of wine, gin, rum, whisky and rye along with about 60 dozen beer.

Riders Thrown, Hurts Slight

Tumbled motorbike riders lay like scattered bowling pins after three machines tangled at Western Speedway Sunday. Stunned, but not hurt, unidentified rider lies by posts, (arrow), Jerry Mingano of Port Angeles is sprawled on the track. A third landed out of camera range. The combined scramble and track racing event drew about 20 entries from mainland and Washington in what officials called successful meet.

Ottawa Hears Protests Against 'Open' Fishing

MP David Groos Sunday

strongly urged the federal minister of fisheries to make special arrangements to ensure proper escapement of salmon in Juan de Fuca Strait.

Mr. Groos-wired Ottawa in reply to an announcement Saturday by the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission that gillnetters and purse seiners would be allowed to fish in Juan de Fuca Strait for an indefinite period.

Commission chairman Tom Reid said the reason for the indefinite period was to enable the commercial fishermen to recoup losses as a result of the recent fishing strike.

Mr. Groos said, "I strongly recommend and appeal for special arrangements to be made immediately to ensure adequate escapement of salmon up spawning rivers."

Conservation officials fear the extended period could wipe out the Cowichan coho run and have a drastic effect on spring salmon in Island waters.

Jack James, president of Amalgamated Conservation Society, which has also sent telegrams to the minister and the director of fisheries in Vancouver, said his association strongly protests the type of measure initiated by the Fisheries Commission.

"Net fishermen are being allowed to fish in Juan de Fuca to make up for their losses in the Georgia and Johnston Strait areas when they were on strike," he said.

Prolonged fishing in Juan de Fuca would seriously damage the run of salmon spawning in lower Island rivers, while the fishing in Georgia Straits would not, James said.

Mr. Groos felt the step was taken by the Fisheries Commission was "a dangerous and undesirable precedent."

"Escapement must be regulated by curtailing sports fishing in areas near river mouths as well as by halting commercial fishing 100 miles away in the strait."

"Sports fishermen and the tourist industry (because of the prolonged commercial fishing period) are being required to pay for the unfortunate fishing strike last month, for which they were in no way responsible."

Harbours committee chairman Ald. Arthur Dowell said today red tape is slowing up re-development of the Inner Harbor.

He was commenting on a speech to the Rotary Club by Capital Region Planning Board director A. H. Roberts claiming the city's forefathers had great vision and energy in developing the Inner Harbor.

But today the needed re-development of the Inner Harbor is lagging far behind progress in other parts of the city, he contended.

Not Guilty Plea Entered By Juvenile

A 14-year-old boy choked to death after an altercation with several older youths near Duncan Aug. 8, it was revealed in Duncan juvenile court this morning.

A pathologist's report showed that Hugh George Nesbitt suffered a brain injury which was enough to knock him unconscious before his death. The report said that when he vomited he choked and died.

The report was introduced as evidence in the case against a 17-year-old Duncan youth charged with manslaughter in the boy's death.

CHANGE ASKED

Magistrate Colin Anderson refused to allow the accused youth to stand trial in magistrate's court. Crown Prosecutor David Williams applied for the case to be transferred from juvenile court because of the seriousness of the charge.

The application was opposed by Angelo Branca of Vancouver, defence counsel. He said the move would help neither the accused or the community.

The accused youth is also charged with illegal possession of liquor and with supplying liquor to a juvenile girl. He pleaded not guilty on all three charges he faces.

The case was remanded until Sept. 5 when a date will be set for trial.

BAZZET ROAD

Nesbitt died after an incident that occurred near his Bazzet Road home as he walked along Maple Bay Road with a 16-year-old friend, Conrad Wohler.

A car containing two youths and two girls passed the boys and then stopped. Both Nesbitt and Wohler ran away when the two youths got out of the car.

Wohler escaped but Nesbitt couldn't get over a fence on to his home property. When Wohler returned to the scene after the car had gone he found Nesbitt dying beside the road.

GROOS WIRES COMMITTEE HEAD ASKING HEARING FOR CRITIC

Victoria MP David Groos today wired Maurice Sauve, chairman of the Commons committee on national defence, suggesting that retired commodore James Plomer be invited to air his views before the committee.

Commodore Plomer has written an article sharply criticizing the navy, for the issue of Maclean's magazine which goes on sale here Tuesday.

After reading an advance copy, Mr. Groos, himself a retired naval officer, said: "This is the type of criticism which should be heard by the committee." Mr. Groos is a member of the committee.

Among other charges, Commodore Plomer says a "self-perpetuating, self-electing" group of admirals is running the Royal Canadian Navy like a private club.

Scheduled Fog Arrives on Time

Plane flights were cancelled, ships were slowed and traffic was snarled this morning as the fog rolled in on schedule.

It's due in again Tuesday morning, weatherman William Mackie said.

First two TCA flights from Patricia Bay airport were cancelled this morning, and the third flight ran about 20 minutes late, but normal service had resumed by noon.

Ferry service to the mainland was only slightly affected, with ferries arriving at Swartz Bay a few minutes late, but leaving on schedule.

Today was the third straight day that early morning fog bedeviled travellers.

***

Weather pattern over Victoria at present, says the weatherman.

It will give way to brighter weather in the afternoons, with temperatures in the 68-72 bracket.

Highway traffic in the southern Island area crept along at barely walking pace this morning, and visibility in Juan de Fuca Strait was down to zero at 10 a.m. off Trial Island.

At Albert Head, visibility was about one-eighth of a mile at the same time.

A smoke flare was reported at 10:15, and Pilot Boat 22 and the navy tugboat St. Anthony began a radar search off the Dallas Road waterfront.

It was abandoned after about 10 minutes, when it was reported the flare had been fired from shore for practice.

He died Saturday after a long illness, aged 65.

As owner of Canada Paint and Contracting Co., he took over sponsorship of Victoria United, the city's entry in the Pacific Coast Soccer League, in 1952 when the team was beset with financial difficulties.

One year later he brought Victoria its first and only PCSL title.

He remained with the team until 1955 when he was forced to retire for health reasons.

Born in Truro, Cornwall, England, Mr. Eade had lived in Victoria for 34 years.

He is survived by the widow, Ena, 343 Gorge Road West, one son, Edwin, and three grandchildren.

satin wedding dress, shown as part of Yves St. Laurent collection. Worn with an ermine toque. Centre, a long Bertha collar falling in a point to the knees and edged in organza ruffles is the eye-catching feature of this lipstick red chiffon afternoon gown from the collection of Simonette and Fabiani. A fabulous diamond flower, from Cartier, breaks the barren look of the top.

Paris Gives Wide Choice in Styles

PARIS (AP)—A something for everyone look is shown in photographs of fall and winter fashion models released today by the top Paris houses.

The focus is on hemlines. Even though one attempt by Jacques Heim to launch a longer line—by three to four inches—proved abortive, it may be a straw in the wind for next year.

There were other exceptions to the status quo hemline, which covers the kneecap.

Courages often left the knees uncovered. Rised and Givenchy each launched longer coats over shorter dresses. For evening, Dior showed hemline draping. Veet had a half-way-around ruffle, and Cardin made a deep ruffle.

A secondary focus was on bosoms. They were almost bared Chez Dior so anyone with few inhibitions could indulge to the limit.

There was big news in sleeves, which were often long and tight replacing the sleeve less look. But the chasuble bolero at Lanvin's was sleeveless.

If the designers' approach was often individualistic, reviewers agreed on one point: the antifreeze campaign was "in." All Paris houses equipped madame, mademoiselle and milady to face the icest blasts.

Hoods, stoles, cagoules and scarves heavily muffle the wearer. Collars climb to a new high, to the nose or the eyes whether in fabric or fur.

All the houses had roomy winter coats spelling comfort. Their squared shoulders were sometimes padded. Certain models were inspired by the greatcoats worn by French officers in the First World War.

Saturday Morning Wedding

Fr. W. Mudge officiated at the nuptial mass Saturday morning which united Miss Valerie Diane Gould, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Gould, 1591 Mileva Lane, and Leo Gervais, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adelard Gervais of Temiskaming, Que.

White and pink gladioli decorated Our Lady of the Assumption Church in Brentwood for the ceremony. Pews were marked with pink roses.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a floor-length gown of ivory French brocade with matching bolero jacket. Shoulder-length veil misted from a pillbox covered with matching fabric. She carried a white Bible topped with white roses and heather.

Maid of honor, Miss Wendy Martin, wore an identically styled waltz-length gown in peacock blue silk. A short blue veil skirted a matching pillbox and she carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and heather. Best man was Christopher Gibb. Ushers were Alex and Charles Martin.

The bride's uncle, J. L. Martin, proposed the toast at the luncheon reception held at Surfside 62 Restaurant. Pink and white snapdragons, three-tier wedding cake and candles decorated the bride's table.

For a going-away outfit the bride chose a coral pink Italian knit suit, black mohair picture hat, black and white accessories and a white rose corsage.

Following a honeymoon up Island the newweds will motor east where they will make their home in Ottawa.

The use of fur was the biggest in years. For the younger set, Revillon revived bleached muskrat, pony and white Kalgan sheep.

For formal and gala evenings, there are several looks that will make the 1963 fashion annals. One is the Edwardian "My Fair Lady" look. Balenciaga, Givenchy and Balmain endorsed it for evening.

Another look is the nostalgic flashback to Hollywood's golden age. At Cardin's, Charlie Chaplain waddles out in a skinny suit, even Irene Castle is evoked with ostrich plumes and front-trimmed floating chiffon.

Marilyn May Wed at St. Mark's

Canon Robert Willis officiated at the recent evening ceremony in St. Mark's Anglican Church which united in marriage Marilyn Mary May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Robert May, 1856 Neil Street, and Gordon Lawrence McGaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McGaw, 564 Alpha Street.

White gladioli decorated the church and pews were marked with pink roses and white satin ribbon.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of white-satin overlaid with net and lace on skirt and white lace on bodice. Sleeves ended inilly points. An elbow-length veil of net trimmed with white lace puffed from her headpiece. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses and wore a pearl and diamond necklace, gift of the groom.

Mrs. Patrick McGaw, matron of honor, was gowned in a ballerina-length dress of pale yellow organdy over satin while the bridesmaid, Miss Patricia Clark, chose a similar gown in pink. Both had feather headpieces and carried colonial bouquets of carnations.

Lorne Salmond was best man. Ushers were David Caird, Patrick McGaw, the groom's brother, and Don McIntosh.

Red carnations and a wedding cake decorated the bride's table at the reception held in the Boilermakers' Hall. Charles Hern proposed the toast.

Beige suit with brown accessories and corsage of yellow roses was chosen by the bride as her going away outfit.

After a honeymoon spent in the interior of the province the couple are making their home at 101 Simms Avenue.

Designs Bridal Gown

A floor-length gown of white French taffeta, designed by herself and made by her mother, was worn by Margaret Rose. Koller for her recent marriage to Jack Krahn. Tear-drop pearls adorned her rose headpiece of French taffeta from which puffed a scalloped chapel-length veil. She carried a bouquet of Tallisman roses, carnations and gypsophila. Her jewelry was a culture pearl necklace, gift of the groom.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Josephine Koller of Victoria, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Krahn of Chilliwack. Rev. R. M. Thompson officiated at the ceremony in First United Church. The bride was given in marriage by her eldest brother, Alois Koller.

Church was decorated with orange and white gladioli for the occasion and pews were marked with white satin flowers and ribbon. T. Tucker was organist.

Attendants, Mrs. Ronald Boher, Mrs. William Dick, and Miss Anne McConnell wore sheath styled dresses of orange ice crystal charm with matching headpieces and shoes. Their culture drop pearl necklaces were gifts of the bride. They carried orange and white carnations.

Thomas T. Jarvis was best man while William Dick and Earle M. Koller ushered guests to their pews.

A two-tier cake topped with Tallisman roses and flanked by bouquets of the same flowers centred the bride's table at the reception in Holyrood House. Frank Sellors proposed the toast.

Box style wool suit in beige and mocha with shoes and purse en tone and beige hat enhanced with orange flowers were worn by the bride as the couple left on a honeymoon in Oregon. Her corsage was Tallisman roses.

Upon return they will live at 2543 Cedar Hill Road.

Birthday Marked by Family

A family gathering was held on Saturday evening at the Newport Avenue home of Mrs. R. J. Maconachie to mark the 85th birthday of her father, Mr. A. J. Watson, former manager of the Hudson's Bay Company in Victoria. Among those present were Mr. Watson's eldest son, Mr. Bradley Watson and Mrs. Watson, who came from Springfield, N.J., for the birthday party and a grandson, Mr. Garry Watson and Mrs. Watson and their daughter Shelley from Vancouver. Also present was Mrs. Garry Watson's father, Mr. George Lowe, a visitor from Hobart, Tasmania. He is presently the guest of Mrs. Maconachie. The Bradley Watsons are staying with Mr. A. J. Watson at his Dewdney Street home.

Coffee Hour

Mrs. Edwin Tomlin entertained at the coffee hour on Sunday at her Henderson Road home for her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Willoughby and their son Allan, who had been visiting her from Chicago. The party was also planned for Mrs. Tomlin's grandsons and a granddaughter, Mrs. Bob Orcutt. The Willoughbys left today for their Illinois home.

Hear Vows

Here Saturday to attend the wedding of Miss Valerie Diane Gould and Mr. Leo Gervais were Mr. and Mrs. R. Potter, Mrs. R. Bernard and Miss Marilyn Bates of Vancouver; Mrs. Tom Dixon, Nanaimo; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Oliver, White Rock; Mrs. N. Scott, Edmonton, and Mr. Alex Martin, Brakorne, B.C.

Civil Ceremony

Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth O. Wright, 3050 Devon Road, announce the marriage of their daughter, Nora Louise to Mr. Raymond C. Osborne, son of Dr. and Mrs. Clark Osborne of Vancouver. Following the civil ceremony in the Parliament Buildings with Mr. and Mrs. Leeson MacKenzie as attendants, a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. The newlyweds left on a honeymoon to Portland, Ore., and San Francisco. On return they will make their home at 1390 Laurier Avenue, Vancouver. The bride will enter her final year in nursing at the University of British Columbia and the groom will lecture in the department of philosophy.

Wedding Guests

FREIGHTERS COLLIDE IN LOS ANGELES FOG

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two heavily loaded U.S. freighters collided in dense fog in Los Angeles harbor today and were badly damaged. No injuries were reported.

The 4,608-ton Matson Line freighter Sierra of San Francisco suffered a five-foot rip in her starboard side at the waterline. She was listing sharply but kept from sinking by a load of lumber. She was towed to shore.

The 4,300-ton Calmar Lines Liberty ship Massmar of Baltimore, listing slightly, dropped anchor near the site of the collision.

The Sierra, with a cargo of B.C. lumber, was inbound from San Francisco for Los Angeles, and the Massmar was outbound for San Francisco. The Sierra, a regular visitor, began loading at various B.C. ports when she docked at Victoria July 31.

Prison Boosts Medical Staff

AGASSIZ, B.C. (CP) — The medical staff at Mountain Prison was increased by six persons today to cope with the continuing fast by Sons of Freedom Doukhobor prisoners.

Penitentiaries Commissioner Allen J. MacLeod said the Canadian Army was asked to send a doctor, nurse and four orderlies.

A doctor, nurse and three orderlies have been attending the prisoners so far during the 34-day hunger strike.

Five Freedomites have been taken to hospital and one has died since the strike began. Sect members inside and outside the special prison have refused to give up the protest, and Mr. MacLeod said today "how far they'll go I don't know."

Meanwhile, a group calling itself the human rights committee made an attempt to resolve the situation in alliance with a few of the more than 500 Freedomites who camped here last Tuesday on arrival from Vancouver.

The delegation was allowed

Millions Down Drain As 'Bobcat' a Flop

By DAVE MCINTOSH
OTTAWA (CP) — After millions of dollars, thousands of man-hours and nearly 10 years development, the army's projected Bobcat armored personnel carrier may be thrown on the junk heap.

Former defence minister Harkness announced in February, 1961, that 500 amphibious Bobcats would be produced for the Canadian infantry brigade in Europe.

But the 20 prototypes have not yet been received by the army for user trials. They were to have come off the assembly line in February.

Informants say the machine is having trouble learning to swim and that it now is about twice as expensive as similar vehicles in other NATO countries.

Under study is the possibility of procuring the American M-113 carrier with Canadian industry perhaps making components for it which could be sold in other NATO countries.

There is some urgency about the carrier problem in the army because, as Lt. Gen. Geoffrey Walsh, chief of the general staff, said July 11, NATO is pressing for mechanization of the infantry brigade in Europe. The army initiated the Bobcat in January, 1954, before any other NATO country had designed such an armored personnel carrier.

However, other NATO countries have since passed Canada in carrier development and Canada now ranks about fifth in this field.

Up to the time of Mr. Harkness' announcement, about $3,500,000 had been spent on development of the Bobcat.

Production of the 20 prototypes and tooling were estimated to cost an additional $3,500,000.

Viet Nam Faces U.S. Aid Cut

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI) — The United States warned today that it will make sharp cuts in its multi-million-dollar aid to South Viet Nam if President Ngo Dinh Diem's government continues its present harsh policies against opposition forces and Buddhists.

The warning was contained in a Voice of America broadcast which reached this tense city where troops still occupy key points in strength.

It came as government troops and police appeared to have smashed student resistance to the regime.

Government forces shot and killed one girl and carted hundreds of other student demonstrators off to jail in a crackdown Sunday. Some estimates placed the number of students jailed at 2,000.

The government radio broadcast an order today reducing the curfew from 11 p.m. to 5 a.m. to midnight to 5 a.m. At the same time, Ton That Dinh, military governor of Saigon, issued an order authorizing soldiers to open fire on any gathering, demonstration or group of "troublemakers" who violate the state of martial law which has been in effect since last Wednesday.

There were no new student demonstrations today, but informed sources said a student leader smuggled identical notes Sunday night to newly-arrived U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and key Vietnamese generals which said, "We now hand fight against Diem over to you."

The students apparently hoped that U.S. officials and possibly dissatisfied elements in the army would take up their fight for them.

Lodge met this morning with acting Vietnamese Foreign Minister Truong Cong Cui, and shortly afterwards presented his credentials to Diem at the Gia Long presidential palace. He gave Diem a personal message from President Kennedy.

Reds Didn't Put Fire Out

BOSTON (AP) — The Gloucester, Mass., fishing boat St. Nicholas sank today as a result of an engine-room fire which started up again after a Russian fishing vessel fought the blaze and reported it controlled.

The eight-man crew, unharmed, had been taken aboard another American fishing vessel, the Holy Cross, after the St. Nicholas crew radioed Sunday night that they lacked fire-fighting equipment and could not control the flames.

At that time, the seagoing Russian tug Salvage sped to the scene, fought the fire and, at daybreak today, reported the blaze controlled before it departed.

CRUSTY U.K. MAGAZINE SNIFFS AT HERO

Robin Hood Was Just a Hood

LONDON (AP) — A highly respected British magazine today denounced Robin Hood as a hoodlum and said that if he were alive today he would be jailed.

The magazine, The Justice of the Peace and Local Government Review, said:

"Having regard to the fact that the exploits of this legendary hero were chiefly concerned with robbing the rich under the specious motive of giving to the poor—after deduction of a reasonable commission for services rendered—a function which, in modern times, has been taken over by the welfare state—it is a question of some doubt whether a Robin Hood festival is not contrary to public policy."

Thousands Lose Vote Party Chiefs Charge

By FRANK RUTTER

The first major controversy of the Sept. 30 election boiled today around charges that thousands of eligible British Columbians will not have a vote.

The three opposition party leaders attacked Premier Bennett for "arrogance" and claimed his snap election included deliberate disregard of the fact that short notice would virtually disenfranchise many citizens.

It was disclosed that there has not been a full-scale revision of the provincial voters' list since Social Credit came to power in 1952.

Chief electoral officer Fred Hurley said that a number of constituencies have been revised by door-to-door canvassing over the years, but a cabinet order would be required to launch a province-wide enumeration.

Voting lists close on Saturday and there will be no door-to-door canvass in any riding.

All three opposition leaders deplored the short-notice election.

And the B.C. Federation of Labor, which supports the New Democratic Party, declared it will print 50,000 registration cards in an attempt to sign up voters itself.

PERMANENT LIST

A permanent voters' list is maintained for the whole province and it is kept up to date in three ways:

Once a month the vital statistics branch supplies a list of deaths and the names are deleted.

After each election people who don't vote are sent a card which they must complete to remain on the list.

The public itself is expected to notify local registrars of any changes.

Larger Shaft Now Complete

HAZLETON, Pa. (UPI) — Rescuers today completed enlargement of the escape hole for two plucky miners trapped 308 feet underground for two weeks and began final operations to remove them in a metal capsule.

Drillers reamed out the plug at the bottom of the hole at 3:18 p.m. EDT (12:18 PDT). The next job was to withdraw equipment from the hole, mount the capsule and give it a few test runs.

Authorities hoped to have David Fellin, 58, and Henry Thorne, 28, out of the 308-foot deep prison by this evening. The last 15 feet had to be reamed out with extreme care, cutting only four feet an hour.

The final operation consisted of enlarging the original 12-inch hole, by which the miners were located last week, to 17½ inches. Drilling equipment will be withdrawn, an escape capsule lowered into the hole, the men drawn up one at a time.

Fellin reported by telephone that all was well in the mine and very little dust was coming through from the drilling operation. The lower part of the hole had been temporarily filled with cement to prevent debris from falling on the trapped men.

"We're sneaking up on you, so if you see any rock falls or cracking, or anything, you holler," Gordon Smith, deputy state secretary of mines, told the men. "And don't look up when the hole goes through."

Fellin assured him, "We'll holler" if anything goes wrong.

'Something that Looks Like Plastic'

At 1:18 p.m. EDT the reamer broke through the concrete plug and came to the final wooden plug. Fellin said he looked up the hole and saw something that "looks like plastic."

"That's the plug," he was told by Smith. "Keep out of the way. We're going to start to drill again."

When the drill passed the 165-foot mark shortly before noon EDT, it was decided to continue to drill through to the men with the 17½-inch reamer instead of switching to a 20-inch reamer. Authorities said, however, that the large bore would be used "if necessary."

Dr. H. Beecher Charnbury, state secretary of mines, said there was a possibility the breakthrough could be made in three hours but he "suspected" it would take a longer time. He said it would take five hours to prepare the tube for the capsule, test the capsule, and take other precautions for pulling the men up.

Rescue workers reported the three-inch tube being drilled in an effort to reach the trapped miner, Louis Bova, also had passed the 265 foot depth, but progress was "disappointing." The whereabouts of Bova, who has not been heard from since last Tuesday, are not known exactly.

The federal aviation agency declared the Shepton area a disaster area today in order to bar all airplanes from approaching within five miles or 2,000 feet altitude without specific advance approval of the FAA. This will prevent any vibrations, especially from jets, from disturbing the earth in the rescue area.

There were fears the metal escape capsule, which was expected to bring the men to the surface, would get stuck in the narrow rescue shaft.

Officials also wanted to decide whether to send a volunteer down to help the men into the capsule.

Anglicans Adopt 'Roll-Back' Plan

TORONTO (CP)—The problem the Anglicans posed themselves when they assembled in world congress here two weeks ago was how to challenge a world that seems to care less and less about what the church in general and Anglicans in particular stand for.

They decided immediately against a policy of containment and opted instead for a strategy of roll-back.

"God does not spend all his time in church," said the congress chairman, Canadian Howard M. Clark, at the opening rally. "The church that lives to itself will die by itself," warned Anglicanism's senior prelate, the Archbishop of Canterbury.

But just how to take the offensive both on a global basis—in the field of missions—and at the local level, against an irreligious materialism, provoked much of the debate during the 11-day congress, which ended Friday.

For a start, most of the 1,000 delegates seemed to agree, the Anglican Communion must reorganize itself both in outlook and administration if it is to wage an effective worldwide campaign.

CREDIT BAYNE

The program for "mutual responsibility and interdependence," drawn up by leading bishops of the member churches, carries the imprint of Bishop Stephen Bayne's incisive mind.

Bishop Bayne, who moved to London from Seattle, Wash., four years ago to become the Anglican Communion's first executive officer, repeatedly declared the manifesto was a cooperative effort in the face of the "in-group" jokes about "Bayne-washing" and "Bayne-lities."

But if so, the fact that church leaders are thinking and speaking so much like their superior man is a tribute to his persuasive powers, as one congress observer put it.

If any one delegate dominated proceedings at the congress—apart from the warm and jovial delegate from Canterbury—it was the articulate Bishop Bayne, whose burnished baritone worked hypnotically in a half of spellbound Anglicans or in a quiet chat about tactics in the lobby.

Others made brief explosions in the continuing debate on how the church can make itself heard through the noise of 20th century secularism, notably Bishop A. M. Stockwood of Southwark, London, and his American counterpart in the clerical comments department, Wayne University Chaplain Malcolm Boyd.

"I'd rather my priests spent their time talking to parishioners in pubs than wasting effort of sermons for a congregation of six or eight or 10 on Sunday," said Bishop Stockwood.

Mr. Boyd spent at least one night touring Toronto coffee bars and reciting beat poetry, earning himself the title "espresso priest."

Bishop Stockwood dismissed the congress message issued on the final day as "pious puff" while Mr. Boyd suggested that "the people outside on the street don't give a Goddam about the kind of sentiment expressed in the message."

B.C. Indian Matriarch Dies at 95

VANCOUVER (CP)—Funeral services will be held Tuesday on the Burrard Indian Reserve in North Vancouver for Mrs. Annie George, 95, great-granddaughter of the Indian warrior Wautsuk.

Mrs. George leaves 180 descendants, three of whom have been Indian chiefs. She had nine sons, four daughters, 30 grandchildren, 108 great-grandchildren and 34 great-great-grandchildren.

She was one of the few remaining full-blooded descendants of the original Squamish tribe, founded by Wautsuk, who was renowned because he kept a wolf as his constant companion.

Wautsuk and four of his brothers went aboard Captain George Vancouver's British ship when it explored the area of Indian Arm in Burrard Inlet.

Mrs. George's husband, Sialholte George, chief of the Burrard tribe, died in 1955.

Driver Hurt in Today's Highway Crash

A car was demolished and its driver severely injured when two automobiles driven by youths tumbled over a 25-foot bank after a rear-end collision at 2:10 Sunday morning.

Harold T. Ford, 20, of 1151 Colville, is in satisfactory condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital with internal injury suffered in the crash on Trans-Canada Highway near Helmecken.

The other youth, Douglas Elmer Pearsall, 17, of 1255 Hastings, was reported to be in fairly good condition with head cuts.

Two couples who were riding with Ford were also taken to hospital, treated for minor injuries and released.

They were Douglas Bond and his wife Sharon of 37 Gorge, and Joan and Jim Jordan of 1155 Colville.

OVER BANK

Colwood RCMP said all remained in the car after it struck the rear end of Pearsall's parked pickup truck then catapulted over the bank, taking the pickup with it.

Pearsall was standing near his truck checking a rear tire when the Ford car approached from the south.

When it struck the truck a glancing blow and carried on over the bank, the windshield popped out and Ford was thrown from the car. It rolled at least once, staying in the roof.

The hospital said Ford suffered injury to his liver.

LIGHTS ON

Police said Pearsall stopped his northbound truck on the gravel shoulder while he checked the tire. He left the lights on.

Ford's car went 80 feet along the shoulder before hitting the truck.

Police said damage to the pickup was comparatively light—about $300.

Flow of Tourists Seen on the Rise

Victoria's tourist business is bouncing back this month from a slow start.

And experts foresee a better than average winter season if the potential is developed.

Victoria Visitors Bureau President G. Conway Parrott reported the increase in visitor. He said also, planning should start now to attract prairie and U.S. visitors for the Christmas period.

He said many prairie visitors, particularly older parents whose children have now grown up, would be attracted by a "really traditional Yukutide festival."

"They would fill up our hotels, enjoy themselves and make a profitable season for the community."

AUGUST NEAR NORMAL

Summing up this summer's traffic, he said "June was poor; July was not good; but August seems to be shaping up somewhere near normal."

Cavemen Found Three Unexplored Caverns

A party of modern cavemen returned to Victoria late Sunday after a four-day exploration of six central Vancouver Island caverns, three of them previously undiscovered.

It was the first western Canadian speleological expedition, or formal survey of underground caverns for scientific research.

"It was a very successful trip," said Dave Dunnet, leader of the eight-man party including four Seattle speleologists, one of them Dr. William Halliday, an internist with 15 years' caving experience.

One of their objectives was to rediscover a cave near Henderson Lake, first located by one of the party—Thorne Forrest, a Victoria surveyor—in 1910 and again in 1930.

UNDERGROUND RIVER

The cavern contains an underground river within 200 feet of its opening.

"We didn't find the one we came after because the underbrush was too heavy and there were too many other holes to

Scouts Back From Rally At Marathon

Four Victoria boy scouts and their leader returned Saturday from Greece and a week-long jamboree on the hot, windy plains of Marthon.

Scouts David Allen, Wayne Lister, Leonard Duval, and David Barber, and their leader David Barker, spent two weeks at the jamboree and another two travelling in Greece and eastern Canada.

There were more than 15,000 scouts at the jamboree, and the Victoria boys were quartered with boys from Japan, Mexico, Saudi Arabia, Northern Rhodesia, and South Africa.

It took a while for the Canadian boys to get used to the diet, said Mr. Barker, but after a few days they adapted.

"It was windy and hot all the time, and the boys found they could wash a neckerchief and have it dry in seven minutes," he said.

After the jamboree broke up Aug. 12, the B.C. scouts toured southern Greece, and spent a full day in Athens, visiting the Acropolis and the ancient Greek theatre.

They left Greece, Monday by air, and arrived in Montreal the same day.
